Nixon will tour 5 Mideast countries

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will tour five Middle East countries June 12-18 "to consolidate what has been achieved on the road to peace," the White House said today.

Simultaneous announcement were made by the White House and each of the five Middle East governments involved in Nixon's plans for the most extensive tour of the region ever undertaken by a U.S. president.

A White House spokesman said Nixon would depart Monday morning for Salzburg, Austria, where he will spend two nights before heading to the Middle East.

Nixon's Middle East itinerary: June 12-14, Egypt; June 1415, Saudi Arabia; June 15-16, Syria; June 16-17, Israel; and June 17-18, Jordan.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, who made the White House announcement, said the President will be accompanied by Mrs. Nixon and by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, whose successful negotiation of an Israeli-Syria disengagement agreement last week cleared the way for the journey.

Adminsitration sources said the trip is intended also to underscore adminstration belief that Nixon remains a world leader despite impeachment moves at home.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said that despite Watergate, Nixon has bipartisan congressional support on foreign policy.

Mansfield said in Helena, Mont., that he applauded Kissinger's successes in the Middle East:

Not since Franklin D. Roosevelt's journeys to Cairo in 1943 and 1945 has an American president visited the region.

Kissinger, secretary of state as well as Nixon's national security adviser, paved the way for the trip when he negotiated a Syrian-Israeli disengagement agreement last week. He had negotiated a similar IsraeliEgyptian disengagement after a cease-fire in the October war.

A team of experts in such fields as communications and security already has arrived in the Middle East to make advance arrangements.

According to Cairo reports, a special meeting with Egyptian officials was arranged to discuss presidential security.

Cairo sources also said the Nile Hilton hotel was alerted to reserve eight floors, or some 320 rooms, for a three-day Nixon visit next week.

The trip timetable would give the President several days of rest in the United States before he departs for a week of summit talks in the Soviet Union beginning June 27.

Burning of solid waste must end on June 30

The City Council Monday night postponed decision on a rate increase for See -Mor Cable TV until a special meeting to be held in two weeks.

The council also heard a legal opinion from City Attorney Manuel Drumm concerning municipal contributions to non -profit organizations, and were reminded that the city must pass a solid waste disposal ordinance this month. The council asked Drumm to submit a letter of protest to the Public Service Commission concerning a rate increase sought by Associated Natural Gas.

CABLE TV

The council postponed a decision on a rate increase for See -mor Cable TV to give councilmen more time to study a report from the committee studying See -Mor's request.

See -Mor is requesting a rate increase of 50 cents a month. The council demanded information on the firm's financial status before making a decision.

The committee met Thursday night with four members of the See -Mor organization, which included Bill Haynes and Fred Travis of Topeka, Kan. Tom Gleason, manager of the local office, and an accountant from Topeka.

The city was represented by councilmen Arthur Ziegenhorn, John Houchin, Don Fulton, acting City Manager Bill Whitlock and an accountant Jim Booker.

Whitlock said today the city received the financial information on the organization at 4 p.m. Thursday and met with See -Mor representatives Thursday night.

Councilmen didn't feel they had enough time to make a decision, Whitlock said.

Se -Mor has cited inflation and unexpected expenses in moving lines as the reason for the rate increase request.

CHARITY

In a two -page written opinion, Drumm told councilmen he believed it was illegal for the city to donate money to non -profit organizations not controlled by the city.

The council asked for Drumm's opinion after several requests had been made for municipal donations to charitable organization..

No formal decision was made by the council on Drumm's opinion, but Whitlock said today he believed the council would follow Drumm's advice.

GARBAGE

The burning of solid waste in the city must end on June 30, Whitlock told the council. A state law forbidding burning of waste goes into effect July 1.

In addition the city must submit a solid waste disposal ordinance to the Division of Health in Jefferson City by June 20.

Whitlock said he has received a model ordinance from the Missouri Municipal League and is now reading it to see how it can be adapted to Sikeston.

Williams sentenced to 5 years

BENTON — Robert Lee Williams, 19, of 111 Thompson St., Sikeston, was sentenced to five years in custody of the State Department of Corrections after he pleaded guilty today to charges of manslaughter in Circuit Court before Judge Marshall Craig.

Williams was originally charged with first degree murder in connection with the Feb. 18 slaying of Jessie James Perkins, also known as Jessie Cauldwell, 117 Petty St., Sikeston.

Perkins was shot once in the chest shortly before 11 p.m. while on the front porch of the Charlie Williams home, where young Williams, a relative, lived. The shooting reportedly followed an argument over a woman, according to police.

Police said Williams walked into the police station at 11:02 p.m. on the night of the killing and told officer Ed Speakman that he had just shot a man and wanted to turn himself over to police.

Williams then reached into his pants pocket and pulled out a .22- caliber

700 walk off jobs

CHAFFEE — About 450 union workers in Chaffee and 250 in Cape Girardeau have not reported to work at the Thorngate Ltd. plants since Monday and pickets are present at both plants. The plants are being affected by an industry- wide strike in the men's and boy's clothing field called Saturday by AFL-CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

C. Frank Adams, vice president of Thorngate, which is owned by Hart, Schafner and Marx Co., said the contract with the union expired June 1 and the only employes working today were management personnel.

According to Adams, the parent company will issue a statement later today.

Union officials from the St. Louis office are meeting today with officials at the Cape Girardeau office.

Pickets, who were at the scene in shifts of 10 or 12 at a time had blocked the three plant entrances except for a driveway to allow management personnel to enter.

Strikers said they had been warned against commenting on the situation.

Corps recommends drainage plan

MEMPHIS, TENN. --The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, in a report on the St. Johns Bayou and New Madrid Floodway, has recommended a $21 million plan for improvements.

The project, as recommended, would eliminate the almost annual flooding of existing properties in the study area and would provide needed facilities for development of fish and wildlife resources, according to the Corps of Engineers.

The report, authorized by resolutions of the Committee on Public Works of the U.S. Senate, concludes that there is a need for flood control and economic growth, programs and fish and wildlife development. If the project is authorized as recommended, it will provide for construction of a 2,000 cubic feet per second (cfs) pumping station in conjunction with 64.2 miles of channel improvements in the St. Johns Bayou area. It would also provide for channel clean -out on 5.8 miles of streams in Sikeston and construction of a 500 cgs pumping station in the lower New Madrid Floodway.

The report also recommends construction of a 500 cfs pumping station, an outlet structure with an opening of 200 square feet controlled by two power -operated lift gates at the outlet end, channel improvements on 11 miles of streams and construction of four miles of new channel in the St. James Bayou area of the New Madrid Floodway.

Also recommended is the purchase of approximately 2,500 acres in Tenmile Pond with appropriate water control structures for fish and wildlife management, use of easements to permit annual flooding on lowlands and access for fishing in borrow areas to mitigate fish and wildlife losses which are expected to occur as a result of the project.

Other plans which were evaluated consisted of various channel design in combination with pumping stations, channel improvement without pumping stations and pumping stations without channel improvement.

The total estimated cost of all work to be performed is $21,966.000 of which $17,869,000 would be federal funds and $4,097,000 non -federal.

The Mississippi River Commission is now reviewing the report. Written views on

LAWN WATERING ECONOMY

By the time you are seventy years old, if you're an average American, you will have used 26 million tons of water. Along with all our other energy problems, the diminishing quantity and quality of water is becoming an increasing concern

Because all the products with which they work depend on a proper use of water, the people of the American Association of Nurserymen have a great interest in providing practical instructions for its best application and preservation.

Most people are more likely to overwater their trees, plants, shrubs and grass than to provide insufficient moisture. The people of the nursery industry advocate thorough watering when it is needed, rather than frequent limited watering. This is much better for the plant, less costly, too — and saves water. The simplest way to tell when water is needed is to examine the soil at a depth of several inches. If it seems dry at that point, put on water. If it is even slightly moist, wait.

The people of the nursery industry make another point. Water from your property travels eventually, in one way or another, to our rivers and streams and carries along with it soil and sediment from your land to add to the water problem. You can prevent this from happening by planting grass or attractive groundcovers on any sloping area from which water will be running off.

If our water is an endangered resource, as the ecologists say, steps such as these taken by every individual will be a long- term investment.

HAMBURGERS IN HISTORY

Those who lament the destruction of so many fine old American landmarks and their replacement by such things as parking lots, gas stations and hamburger stands can take comfort in this thought: if you wait long enough, almost everything eventually becomes a landmark — even a hamburger stand.

As a case in point, Louis' Lunch, a tiny restaurant in New Haven, Conn., that claims to have invented the hamburger in 1900, was scheduled for demolition to make way for a 12- story medical complex.

Through a last- minute legal reprieve, the building will be moved to another site where, as an official city landmark, it will continue to serve coming generations of Americans.

While contrasting Shelby and Scott counties in the way they deal with criminal cases, it is only fair to add that last week in New Madrid county, which is part of the Bootheel and joins Scott county, eight criminal cases found the defendants receiving suspended sentences. Who collects most of Uncle Sam's taxes? About 86 per cent of Federal taxes are collected by and from business, says Tax Foundation.

Of the nearly $225 billion the Federal government received in taxes last year, more than $192 billion was handed over by business.

Business collected the bulk of individual income taxes for the government, withholding some $81 billion from paychecks for that Federal tax, and nearly $27 billion from paychecks as the employes' share of Social Security taxes.

Business paid an equal amount as its share of the Social Security tax and some $84 billion in corporate income, excise and other Federal taxes.

In addition, business must pay the costs of collecting the taxes for Uncle Sam. "Tax compliance costs" vary widely from the costs of maintaining a tax department in a large corporation to the time it takes someone to comply with the paper work in small operations. The exact cost is not known, says the Foundation, but it is in the millions.

Some taxes paid by business are passed along to customers in the form of higher prices, like any other business costs. But business taxes are also paid by stockholders in the form of lower dividends or by employes in the form of lower wages, or out of earnings that would otherwise go back into the business, as well as by consumers.

Below is a breakdown, by major Federal tax, of the $192 billion collected by or from business in 1973, based on data from the new Federal budget:

Corporation income tax, $36,152,000,000; Individual income withheld, 81,038,000,000; Social Security taxes, 53,687,000,000; unemployment tax, 1,417,000,000; railroad retirement, 1,189,000,000; customs (estimated), 2,869,000,000; excise taxes, 15,946,000,000; total: $192,298,000,000.

Very few of our public servants in the Federal government ever give the many businesses that collect their taxes at no cost a kind word. In fact, it has become such a burden in redtape and paperwork that any business operator will tell you that it is now a problem in the struggle to keep his head above the water.

WHAT'S A MISQUOTE BETWEEN PRESIDENTS?

In his State of the Union message, President Nixon quoted one of his predecessors Thomas Jefferson, as saying "the price of liberty is eternal vigilance". This, of course, nicely buttressed his point that "the price of peace is a strong defense," and no one is likely to contest that.

However, in the interest of historical accuracy, it should be pointed out that Mr. Jefferson was misquoted. In fact, Jefferson may not have said anything like that at all.

According to Bartlett's Familiar Quotations, John Philpot Curran (1750-1817), an Irish politician, said in 1790:

"The condition upon which God hath given liberty to man is eternal vigilance, which condition if he break, servitude is at once the consequence of his crime and the punishment of his guilty."

This, over the years, has been transmutted to the familiar, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" and it is this quotation, Bartlett's says, which has been "attributed" to Jefferson. Since Jefferson read widely, he may have seen and refined Curran's remark. In any event, Mr. Nixon got it wrong.

To wonder what Mr. Nixon would do to the following Jefferson quote, beloved of journalists, is arrant speculation:

"... were it left for me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

MAXIMUM SS TAX MAY TOP AVERAGE INCOME TAX BILL

The new maximum Social Security tax may be larger than the Federal income tax on more than half of some 80 million individual income tax returns to be filed this year, Tax Foundation, Inc. estimates.

The $772 maximum tax on employees (which must be matched by employers for a $1,544 total) exceeds the average of Federal income taxes paid on all returns with income up to $15,000 — 85 percent of returns in 1971, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

All workers with incomes over $10,800 will be affected, but only those earning $13,200 and over will feel the full bite of the latest increase in the OASDHI withholding tax, which became law January 3.

Some 29 million retired persons, rich, poor and in begween, however, will get an 11 percent increase in benefits during the year from the Social Security package Congress hastily wrapped up before Christmas.

The 22 percent increase in the tax for those earning $13,200 and above now imposes the 5.85 percent rate on all wages and salaries up to that limit. The self- employed must pay 7.8 percent or a new maximum of $1,029.

For most family breadwinners earning $13,200 this year, the new Social Security tax has suddenly gorown to half the size of the Federal income tax. After deductions and exemptions, the income tax takes about 11.7 percent of his paycheck, according to the Foundation.

For households with less than $13,20- income, and that's the boat most families are in, the Social Security tax is even more formidable.

A married couple with two children and $7,000 a year income, for example, will pay a Federal income tax of $406 and a Social Security tax of $409.50, the same as last year.

Nevertheless, the idea of raising Social Security benefits and taxes is apparently popular, observes Tax Foundation. (The Senate voted 65-0 in favor of the latest measure.)

With the latest increases, benefits will have risen 68.5 per cent for the January 1970- July 1, 1974 period. The Consumer Price Index is expected to be up about 28 percent in thee period.

TAXES AND THE IR$, A MORAL OBLIGATION

The respected Judge Leonard Hand has often been quoted on the subject of a taxpayer's obligation, specifically in reference to the federal income tax.

"Anyone may so arrange his affairs," he said, "that his taxes shall be as low as possible; he is not bound to choose that pattern which will best pay the Treasury; there is not even a patriotic duty to increase one's taxes ..."

This hardly means, however, that there is not a patriotic duty to pay one's fair share of taxes, or that this duty no longer holds when someone else may "so arrange his affairs" that he evades his fair share.

Yet on the basis of a flood of indignant letters from his constituents, Ohio Democratic Rep. Charles A. Vanik recently expressed fear that just such a taxpayer revolt may be brewing.

It is quite apparent, he warned, that "the voluntary income tax system established over a long period in the United States is now being threatened to the peril point by the moral indifference of the President to his own tax obligations and his position as national leader."

According to a lengthy article in the Wall Street Journal, the same worry is being entertained in the upper reaches of the Internal Revenue Service, not only because of widespread outrage at the President's tax returns for two recent years but because of a growing popular belief that the whole system is unfairly weighted in favor of the wealthy and the privileged.

It could be catastrophic for the nation if millions of Americans decided to withhold or to shade their taxes this year, either out of resentment at what a few are getting away with, or what it is thought they are getting away with, or to "get even" with the system."

Even if the IRS had the manpower to audit and to follow up every return, which it does not, the lost income could in the meantime seriously impair the operation of the government.

That would truly be a case of cutting off our national nose to spite the faces of those who have engaged in questionable behavior.

There is a better way of doing it. Keep those indignant cards and letters coming. Keep up the pressure on Congress to correct the unfair aspects of the system that exist. Demand that the Internal Revenue Service administer the laws evenly.

But make no compromise with ethics, or flirtation with illegality. Rather, let the rule be to render unto the IRS in the manner in which every American, from the President on down, should render for the good of all Americans.

LEFTOVER TAX DECISIONS MOVE TO FRONT BURNER

The past year was prologue for change in Federal tax laws and Congress in 1974 is expected to be more occupied with tax matters than in any year in recent memory, Tax Foundation, Inc. reports.

More and more members of Congress are displaying an eagerness for tax revision following a year that saw lengthy Congressional hearings and a virtual flood of legislative proposals, but little action, the research organization said.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee had optimistically scheduled House action on a tax bill by last June.

A full review of the 1973 efforts is given in a year- end Tax Foundation report on "Tax Developments in 1973."

The TF report sees hints of a "softening" of White House opposition to a tax increase and noted the possibility of the use of tax measures to promote energy conservation.

The Administration has already urged a tax increase on the "windfall profits.' of oil producers. The measure was placed at the top of the agenda for the immediate attention of the Ways and Means Committee when the next session opens this month.

All of the 10,000 U.S. oil producers would be subject to the "windfall profits" tax (to apply only to crude oil). The President tied the measure to a $1-a-barrel increase authorized in December. The increase would be subject to a tax of 9½ cents and the rate would rise with prices, reaching a maximum of 85 percent.

As for general tax revision, Tax Foundation expects now that it is going to come in stages, rather than as a package. Some of the first actions may concern provisions of income tax law that have come under recent attack as "inequitable," including possible changes in capital gains tax provisions.

The 1973 review noted that an element of uncertainty for tax matters this year is the future course of Federal spending.

Congressional staff experts estimated in December that the probable slowdown of the economy this year may bring a deficit in the Federal budget in the neighborhood of $20 billion for fiscal 1975. This compares to estimates of a deficit just under $3 billion for the fiscal 1974 year ending g July 1.

THEY STOLE MY STUFF

WASHINGTON — The paranoia in Washington gets worse and worse. Even I started feeling it, and I went to see a psychiatrist.

"What seems to be the problem?" he asked.

"Everyone is stealing my stuff," I said in anguish.

"Can you be more specific?" he asked.

"Well, you see a couple of years ago things were very dull in Washington and there wasn't much to write about except impoundment and the SALT talks. So I decided to do somethinng to jazz up the column. One day I was walking by the Watergate and I thought to myself, 'Wouldn't it be a gas if the Republicans bugged the headquarters of the Democratic Party?' "

"When did you think of this?"

"Sometime in June of 1972. I thought it would make a very funny column. At first I decided to have one man bug the Democrats, but then I got worried that some people might take me seriously so I decided to make it seven. It seemed more outrageous to have seven people get involved in something that stupid."

"No one in their right mind would have believed it," the psychiatrist agreed.

"Well, the column was a big hit, so I decided to follow it up with another funny column about the Committee to Re-Elect the President being involved in the break- in, including the former attorney general of the United States."

"I recall the piece. It was very amusing, particularly the part about all the money that was spent on the campaign," the psychiatrist said.

"Well, you can't imagine the success of this column. It was so different from anything coming out of Washington. So I did a follow- up column where I just let my imagination go wild. I traced the break- in to the White House. I invented several characters whom I called H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, John Dean and Charles Colson. I decided it would be very funny if one of the characters, John Dean, blew the whistle on the President of the United States."

"Weren't you afraid some people would believe you?" the psychiatrist asked.

"There is always the danger when you're writing satire that a few people will take you seriously. But since I was talking about the President, I was certain no one in his right mind would accept the tale as anything but pure fiction. Anyone with any brains would have to know the whole thing was a big put- on. Frankly I wanted to stop the gag right there, but I had so many requests for further installments that I had no choice but to continue the series.

"I was really stuck as to how to make the thing even more outlandish until one day I was fooling around with my daughter's tape machine and suddenly I got the wildest idea of all. I decided to write that the Presiden had taped (ital) all (unital) his conversations in the White House and that these tapes would implicate him in the Watergate scandal. I said with tongue in cheek, of course, that the evidence would lead to his impeachment.

"I remember that column," said the psychiatrist, "and frankly I thought you had gone too far."

"Well," I said defensively, "(ital) some(unital) people thought it was funny."

"All right then," the psychiatrist said. "What seems to be the problem?"

"Just this. Everyone is stealing my story. Like an idiot I never copyrighted it, and now every time you pick up a paper or turn on the TV they're using my characters and plot. I invented alll those people. THEY BELONG TO ME. WATERGATE NEVER HAPPENED EXCEPT IN MY MIND. DOCTOR, YOU HAVE TO HELP ME."

"Here's a prescription for some Valium. We'll talk more about it next week."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

Jack Anderson SAYS: Courting the Jury

WASHINGTON --White House aides have taken pains to remind members of Congress that they are sitting on the impeachment jury and, therefore, that it is improper for them to discuss the case against President Nixon.

It would seem to be even more improper, however, for Nixon as the defendant to court members of the jury. Yet he has taken key senators and representatives on dinner cruises down the Potomoc. He has made White House planes, limousines and other privileges available to them. He has pampered them with sudden attention.

The President is even tailoring his legislative program, at least in part, to appeal to the conservatives whose votes he is counting upon to keep him in office. The politics of impeachment, rather than the merits of the legislation, now seems to determine what bills he will support.

For example, the President has halted the construction of a cross -Florida barge canal to preserve the beauty of northern Florida's Oklawaha River. As recently as six weeks ago, the White House reassured Florida conservationists of the President's support.

But the promises were forgotten after a contingent of conservative congressmen called upon the White House to go ahead with the barge canal. The President hastily withdrew his opposition.

The same thing happened to a federal land -use bill, which the Presidnet had described as his "number one environmental priority" in his State of the Union message last January. Rep. Morris Udall, D -Ariz., working closely with the Interior Department, drew up a bill to accomplish the President's objective.

But conservatives were afraid the bill would allow the federal government, for the sake of the environment, to infringe on private ownership. House Republican leader John Rhodes and Rep. Sam Steiger, R -Ariz., arranged a private visit with the President and urged him to abandon the Udall bill.

Although the bill simply codified his own proposals, Nixon accepted the suggestions of the two powerful conservatives. Steiger helpfully provided a weakened substitute bill, which the President quickly endorsed.

This killed the Udall bill. It was a victim, snorted Udall, of "Watergate politics." Agreed a staff member privy to the backstage maneuvering: "This was clearly a case of Nixon trying to shore up his conservative support."

The President has also shifted his stand against other consumer, environmental and social programs, which the conservatives despise. And he has showered them with other White House blessings.

When Sen. John Sparkman, D -Ala., called from Paris to complain about a second -rate Air Force plance that had been provided to fly a congressional contingent home from Europe, the White House hastily dispatched Vice President Gerald Ford's plane across the Atlantic to pick up the Sparkman group.

Another time, the President gave Sparkman and Sen. James Allen, R -Ala., a lift home from Alabama and provided them with limousines at the airport. And Vice President Ford gave Sen. Hiram Fong, R -Hawaii, a ride to Hawaii last month.

Few members of Congress used to get in to see the President when the German shepherd dogs, H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, were guarding the door. Liberals are still excluded except on ceremonial occasions. For example, Sen. Walter Mondale, D -Minn., hasn't been inside the White House since the late President Lyndon Johnson occupied the place, and Sen. George McGovern, D -S.D., couldn't even get an official list of Cabinet members from the White House for an inquiring student.

But the doors have been thrown open to the conservatives, such as Sen. Strom Thurmond, R -S.C., Robert Dols, R -Kans., Pete V. Domenici, R -N. Mex., James Eastland, D- Miss., and Walter Huddleston, D -Ky., whose names are on a list of 34 to 39 hard -core conservatives whose vote the President needs to save himself from removal.

Sen. Wallace Bennett, R -Utah, and Russell Long, D -La., were invited to a private breakfast ostensibly to discuss trade with the President a couple of weeks ago. Earlier, the President played the piano at a birthday party for Bennett and Long was granted a 90 -minute audience with the President.

Sen. James Buckley, the New York conservative, had dinner at the White House 10 days before he asked Nixon to resign. He hasn't been invited back.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R -Alaska, admitted to us that his requests "were put on the back burner" in the Haldeman -Ehrlichman days. But this year "things have opened up," and White House aides "are more receptive to my inquiries."

A spokesman for conservative Sen. J. Bennett Johnson, D -La., put it even more candidly. "The White House is wooing Johnson. Nixon has been doing favors for Southern senators ... (for—anyone who's a swing vote on impeachment."

Footnote: A White House spokesman denied that the President's environmental shift had anything to do with impeachment politics. The President simply is trying to safeguard the environment and, at the same time, to provide an adequate energy supply, said the spokesman. He claimed that the President accepted the substitute land -use bill "because it was a better bill."

WORLD ANTI-COMMUNIST LEAGUE

The World Anti- Communist League recently held its seventh annual convention. The excellent speeches at this convention deserve far more attention than the U.S. press gave them.

Admiral John McCain Jr., former commander in chief of U.S. naval forces in the Pacific and Indian oceans, summarized the gains made by the Soviet Union in naval strength. Last October, for example, during the Arab war against Israel, the U.S. Mediterranean fleet consisted of 60 ships, while the Soviet Union had 90 warships, including some capable of launching 300- mile surface- to- surface missiles.

Congressman Richard Ichord summarized the gains realized by the communists in the new Soviet- U.S. policy of "detente." The Kremlin has profited from the wheat deal, from an Export- Import Bank loan of $500 million at 6 per cent interest, and from the favorable provisions of the SALT I treaty.

The Anti- Communist League bestowed three "Freedom Fighter" awards. One went to exiled Russian Nobel Prize- winner Alexander Solzhenitsyn. A second was awarded to Hungarian Cardinal Josef Mindszenty, who has uncompromisingly opposed communism in spite of persecution. The third was received by Balentyn Moroz of the Ukraine, an historian imprisoned for criticizing the Soviet regime. He has written to the people in the West: "Tell them only this: I am kept with the insane, they are creating hell for me. They are trying to drive me to the insanity of those with whom they locked me up. I cannot breathe." If government officials were as staunchly anti-communist as the members of the League, the Kremlin would be much less able to create this kind of hell for men who speak the truth. HLH

Morehouse council fixes property tax rate at $3

MOREHOUSE --The City Council Monday night passed an ordinance fixing the same property tax rate for 1974 as 1973. A tax of $1 on each $100 assessed valuation was approved for the general revenue fund and a $2 tax on each $100 assessed valuation was set for the sinking fund to pay outstanding bond obligations.

Following a lengthy discussion with Howard Adams, a local trash hauler, the council tabled action on signing a contract with Adams for city trash pickup until a special meeting scheduled for Monday.

Adams told the council he wanted a five -year contract to insure him that he could pay for a garbage truck he is trying to purchase. Mayor Marlin Swinger told Adams he would not want to obligate either the council or Adams for a five year period, but suggested a one or two -year contract.

In other action, Mayor Swinger said he would contact Ag -Air Inc. of Sikeston about mosquito spraying for the city.

The council agreed that large trucks should not be allowed on city streets, after a request from Sue Sweeny, who is self -employed, to allow a 40 foot tractor -trailer deliver household products to her home. Council members have received complaints that the truck has been tearing up streets and has knocked over posts.

The council hired P.D. Hutchason as a city employe to replace Bob Lutes, who is resigning.

City Clerk Jack Taylor was authorized to write letters to those residents who have tall grass or weeds on their property. A city ordinance states that grass not be over 10 inches tall. Taylor was also instructed to write letters to those residents who have not yet hooked up to the city sewer system, and who should have done so by Nov. 17, 1973.

Other ordinances were tabled due to the absence of Councilman Jim Kindle.

ITEMIZE HOUSE TAX DEDUCTIONS

One of the great financial benefits of home ownership versus rental is that you are immediately eligible to deduct a good- sized amount of money from your income tax. As a homeowner, you will generally find it to your advantage to itemize deductions rather than taking the standard deduction.

This is especiall true during the earlier years of home ownership. The mortgage interest and real property taxes on your personal residence, when added to toehr deductible items will usually be well in excess of any standard deduction you could claim.

Your home payment may consist of several parts; an amount placed in escrow to pay real estate taxes and fire insurance, FHA mortgage insurance premiums, and an amount applied to reduce the principal of the mortgage. Of these parts, only the interest and taxes are deductible — but that will prove to be a very sizable figure.

Blodgett fish fry set

BLODGETT — A fish fry has been scheduled for Saturday beginning at 6 p.m. in the Blodgett Community Building to raise funds to meet the medical costs of Mike Riley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Riley of Blodgett, who was burned May 14 when lightning struck a fishing party forced ashore along the Mississippi River three miles south of Commerce.

The meal will be free, but donations will be accepted.

The 16- year- old Riley youth was burned over most of his body and legs when the lightning knocked him onto a campfire. Mrs. Riley reported the youth returned home from the hospital Sunday, but will need further treatment.

Food for the fish fry is being donated by neighbors and friends of the family.

Miss Young and passengers, Beverly Kennedy, 17, of Campbell and Kimberly Kennedy, 12, of Malden Route Two received minor injuries and were taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

The television was valued at $90 and the radio at $50.

2 teens held

Police were holding two teenagers today for investigation of petit larceny after they were seen stealing bottles at midnight Monday from the E-Z Food Mart on Davis Blvd.

The two boys, one 18 years old, the other a juvenile, were arrested after police chased them into the Sunset Addition.

Bluff man taken into custody

Gary Lee Wiedeman of Poplar Bluff was taken into custody about 9:30 p.m. Monday after he was found lying by his automobile along Highway 60.

Police said they were called by J.D. Baker, 733 Vernon St., who told them Wiedeman was lying by his car along the road. Baker said he stopped to help and Wiedeman told him to leave him alone. Baker reportedly said Weideman acted strange.

The police reports did not say what was wrong with Wiedeman.

He was taken to the police station where a computer check showed him wanted by Sabine Parish, La., authorities and wanted for escape by Creve Coeur police.

Creve Coeur police arrived in Sikeston at 2:40 a.m. today and took Wiedeman into custody.

Psychiatric help useful to most, damaging to some

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a fool to write this letter. You'll never print it. Everyone knows you are in the hip pocket of the physicians and psychiatrists, but here goes anyway.

My particular subject is "Psychiatric Help." It's nothing but a jungle of quacks, incompetents, and counselors who are crazier than their patients. Under the guidance of two therapists, I experienced two divorces and have seen my daughter turn so trashy and foul- mouthed that when she left home, I was relieved.

According to my first psychiatrist I needed treatment for "a childish need to be dependent." The symptom: My husband spent (by actual count) 67 hours a week at home, including sleeping. The rest of the time he was out carousing around. My therapist told me I exhibited a pathological dependence by bothering my husband with such details as, "Should we have the children's tonsils removed?"

I was informed that I was creating a feeling of "mistrust" in my daughter (age 13) because I told her I was appalled by her sneaking out of the house after the family had gone to bed and wouldn't stand for it.

After several months of therapy (at $40 and $50 an hour) I was made to feel that my judgment was faulty and that I had created most of my own problems because of some "inadequacy in my personality."

When I asked my therapist, after four years, "How long will I have to be in treatment?" he replied, "How long did it take you to get sick?" I wondered if that meant that because I was 44 I could look forward to another 40 years of treatment.

I am not trying to make it appear there is nothing wrong with me. There is plenty wrong, which is why I got into this whole psychotherapy mess in the first place. The point is that finding a therapist with competence, compassion and common sense is so chancy that a person is probably just as well off to talk to himself -- and it would be a lot cheaper. Sign me -- Crazy As Ever But A Lot Smarter

Dear Smarter: Psychiatry has done beautifully for some, very little for others, and has been downright destructive for those who fell into the wrong hands. Of course there are some nutty psychiatrists. In fact, some of them selected the field in search of solutions to their own problems.

Your mistake was staying too long with therapists who weren't helping. Don't damn the entire profession because you drew a couple of losers. For many patients, therapy has been a life- saving experience, and I've received hundreds of letters to prove it.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband keeps nagging me to get a facelift. I am 47 and think I look pretty good. He talks incessantly about a woman in his office who had her face done and looks 20 years younger.

I don't want to spend the money, take the time off from work, or go through the pain. Yet, if it means so much to him, maybe I should. What do you say? -- L.S.

Dear L.S.: It's your face and your husband has no right to pressure you into a lift if you don't want one.

Furthermore, not all lifts come out peachy- keen. I've talked to many women who are sorry they messed around. And bear in mind, the results are not permanent. The best lifts last only five or six years at the most.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious -- lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654. Copyright 1974 Field Enterprises, Inc.

Disabled Veterans auxiliary leader visits area towns

POPLAR BLUFF --Mrs. Dorothy Van Hoy of Independence, commander of the National Disabled American Veteran's Auxiliary, and her husband Allen, visited Poplar Bluff DAV Auxiliary Unit 4 Friday to tour Twin Towers and visit with senior citizens who live there.

David Spence, city manager of Twin Towers, conducted a tour of the facility.

Local DAV chapters taking part in the tour were from Pocahontas, Ark., and West Plains, Cape Girardeau and Poplar Bluff.

Special guests at the luncheon which followed the tour were Steve Feian of the Chamber of Commerce and Martin Noel, director of volunteer service at the Veteran's Administration Hospital.

A tour of the VA hospital began the afternoon's activities for Mrs. Van Hoy. She was shown flower arrangements made and given to the fifth floor patients by DAV Auxiliary members from Cape Girardeau.

The Van Hoys then left for Cape Girardeau where DAV Auxiliary Unit 16 was host, taking the couple to Holiday Inn in Cape Girardeau to join the Perryville and St. Louis chapters for a tour of Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Van Hoy was then honored with an appreciation dinner for her work with the DAV organization.

Table decorations at Holiday Inn included the American and auxiliary flags and white flowers centering the red tablecloths.

Oma Eakins of Delta served as master of ceremonies for the dinner, and Bill Burke of St. Louis, National Service Officer for DAV, was guest speaker. He answered questions concerning different bills which had already been passed by Congress and more recent bills which are now before the Congress.

NIGHTBOOK
By William Kotzwinkle
(Equinox 18580/$2.45
160 pp.)

In homage to the goddess Aphrodite, a gathering of Greek women assemble at her temple, where they pass the evening in lively ribaldry, telling bawdy tales. Boccaccio's Decameron? No, the frame for William Kotzwinkle's new novel, NIGHTBOOK, an erotic fantasia set in both ancient and modern times, and now published by Avon Books as an original paperback novel in a large format Equinox edition. In a sort of double- entendre, the Athenian ladies' stories flash forward to the present day, where similar events, with similar bawdiness, take place.

Leon Schlitts observe 25th wedding anniversary

ORAN –Mr. and Mrs. Leon Schlitt celebrated their silver wedding anniversary May 4 with a 2 p.m. mass at Guardian Angel Catholic Church in Oran.

Father Richard Rowling officiated and Robert Dohogne was commentator. Servers were Randy Scherer and John Schlitt nephews of the couple.

Elmer Seyer was soloist and Mrs. Seyer accompanied him on the organ.

Schlitt and the former, Marcella Scherer, were married May 4, 1949 at St. Lawrence Catholic Church in New Hamburg.

The couple's attendants and ushers from their wedding were present for the occasion.

Mrs. Ellen (Heuring) LaCroix of Advance was maid (matron) of honor; and bridesmaids were Mrs. Alm (Littlepage) Schlitt of Ferguson and Mrs. Rita (Westrich) Wahl of Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Georgia (Schlitt) Neal of Sikeston was flower girl, and Alfred Schlitt of Delta was ringbearer.

Carl Schlitt of Oran was best man, and groomsmen were Harold Schlitt of Ferguson and Robert Schlitt of Poplar Bluff.

Mrs. Armella (Scherer) McClain of Kelso was at the guest book.

Girls should have separate sports

CHICAGO (AP)—Girls should not play football, ice hockey or any other rough contact sports with boys, says the American Medical Association's committee on medical aspects of sports. There is no reason why healthy women should not participate with each other in vigorous contact sports, and there are many reasons why they should be encouraged to do so, the committee said.

But it added that participation on boys' teams "with its inordinate injury risk jeopardizes the health and safety of the female athlete and outweighs the benefits of such participation."

Its statement, published in the June 3 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, was approved by the women's and girls' divisions of the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

The AMA committee pointed out that girls are at a distinct disadvantage to boys in contact sports because they are less muscular and substantially lighter in weight.

Even if girls are matched according to weight, it added, they are still exposed to potentially greater injury, since they have a higher ratio of fat tissue than boys.

The committee noted that participation in girls' high school sports competition has increased 175 per cent over the past two years, and cited the health benefits of appropriate sports.

Girls also have asked to participate on boys' teams in noncontact sports, it said, adding that where no comparable girls' program exists or where separate athletic programs are not feasible, "this interim measure is a desirable solution for selected sports."

"However, it is in the long range interest of both male and female athletes that they have their own programs," the committee said.

(Avon 18176/$1.65

Thomas M. Disch, who has established himself in the front ranks of writers of science fiction with his previous books, among them Camp Concentration, The Genocides And Fun With Your New Head, turns to a new mode of fiction with his new novel 334, now published as an Avon original paperback.

334 is an address in a city; the literal time is the third decade of the 21st century, but behind the door at 334 time slips back and forth in a series of encounters which are, by turns, bizarre, erotic, humorous.

There is a proper mood of chic for a reserved occasion in the blue and white silk cuff brim hat (left) adapted by SYLVIA from the one worn by Lucille Ball in her new musical "Mame," to attend religious services. Great fashion flair for a career girl is offered by FRANK OLIVE in his small crown, modified white felt derby (right) adapted from the one worn by Lucille Ball for her first day as working girl in her new musical.

Hats are back in fashion

By Helen Hennessy
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The League of Instant Drama (L.I.D.) is a new feminist organization which states that the return of the hat is no longer a prediction but a fact.

Everywhere in the American and European collections hats were shown with costumes ranging from the most casual sports clothes, including pants, to elegant evening wear.

More hats are being seen in the pages of fashion magazines, newspapers and on television. They are creating new fashion excitement and the great revival of femininity that women have been waiting for.

Hats have gone to the heads of the young in a big way. They wear them with jeans, with pantsuits with flared skirts. They wear them to rock festivals, to the flicks, on bikes, on hikes.

"Mame," the hattiest movie of the year, starring Lucille Ball, Robert Preston and Beatrice Arthur. Spanning a 20-year period from 1928 to 1948 the fabulous hats from the movie have already inspired a fashion trend by leading designers for 1974.

How often do cells reproduce?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read in an article in a newspaper that every cell in a person's body reproduces itself every seven to eight years. Do you have any way of checking on this? If so, will you please give me any information you have about it?

DEAR READER — That is another one of those half-truths that is constantly repeated. The truth is some cells never reproduce at all. Some cells reproduce when they are needed to replace a damaged cell and still others reproduce constantly.

A good example of continuous reproduction is the case of the red blood cells. Did you know that your body manufactures about three-million new red blood cells every second? It also destroys red cells at that rate. An average red blood cell only lasts about 120 days. So, normally you always have a lot of fairly young red blood cells in your body, not "tired blood."

The lining of the small intestine is completely replaced every three days. The old cells, incidentally, are digested and the protein in these cells used just like the protein in your food. Our body is a great recycling machine far ahead of our primitive ideas about recycling in our own environment. Even the iron-containing hemoglobin in those destroyed red blood cells is saved and used again to form new blood cells.

The cells of the skin are constantly being shed and replaced. So are the hair fibers. These must be rebuilt with new proteins.

The liver is a good example of an organ that can grow new cells if part of it is removed. If a lot of scarring occurs (cirrhosis) it may not be able to do so, but ordinary injury or surgical excision of part of the liver stimulates it to torm new liver cells.

By contrast, muscles, vessels, tendons and brain cells cannot be replaced at all or at best only poorly. You can increase the size of muscle fibers by training, but you won't increase the number of cells or replace old ones.

We are stuck with the number of brain cells we have, and as we get older the number of those in the cortex or thinking portion are fewer in number. Fortunately, we have a lot more than we usually need. But, it can become important as you get older. Brain cells damaged by excess use of alcohol on a long-term basis cannot be replaced.

There is much new interesting work, though, that indicates that living brain cells can learn to take over new functions. Thus, if a person loses the cells that control an arm there is the possibility that other cells can be trained to take over these functions. The possibility of training other brain cells for new tasks opens a wide possibility for helping people with problems such as strokes at some time in the future.

Many cells, such as brain cells, can undergo chemical changes, even if the cell is not replaced. That is, the proteins, amino acids and various minerals in the cell may be exchanged for different proteins and minerals during the cell's life. These changes may be related to cell repair or renewal, even if the cells are not actually replaced. So, you have all variations rather than a seven-or-eight-year cyclical replacement.

What's the law?

The case of the devilish defendant

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

In pursuing the path to wealth and riches, Rupert encountered more obstacles than could be found on an infiltration course. What's more, he insisted that they were purposely placed there by none other than Satan himself.

Consequently, being flat busted, Rupert filed an application in the federal court as a poor person to sue Satan for his having violated Rupert's civil rights.

"In addition to his willfully causing my financial downfall," insisted Rupert in court, "he's threatened me and caused me all kinds of miseries. He's been the unconstitutional bane of my existence."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Rupert to sue Satan for violation of his civil rights?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while the official records fail to show that Satan has ever appeared in a case as a defendant, there is an unofficial account of his having sued a New Hampshire man as plaintiff to foreclose a mortgage.

In that case, noted the judge, the defense was raised that Satan was a foreign prince with no standing to sue in an American court. The defense, however, was overcome by overwhelming evidence to the contrary.

Nevertheless, concluded the judge, there is no allegation made by Rupert that Satan is a resident of this particular judicial district or that he can be served in this particular judicial district.

Consequently, concluded the judge, it is highly questionable whether Rupert can obtain personal jurisdiction over Satan in this judicial district and, therefore, his application must be denied.

DELICIOUS POSSIBILITY

MORRSIVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Can snacking hold more appeal for college girls these days than streaking? Apparently.

The delicious thought of digging into a box of cereal recently overcame the urge of a group of students at the state university here to witness a streaking incident right under their dormitory windows.

As the streaking was about to begin, one hungry coed suddenly found a box of a natural-type cereal and headed back to her room — by herself, she thought. She was immediately pursued by a dozen other girls who abandoned the streakers for a chance to snack on the cereal instead.

She was so amazed that she wrote a letter to Quaker Oats, producer of the cereal, to tell them about it.

Colson testimony would be welcomed

WASHINGTON (AP) White House lawyer James St. Clair said today he would welcome testimony by former White House counsel Charles W. Colson in the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

"In my view it would be highly supportive of the President," St. Clair told newsmen as he entered the committee room for the start of another week of closed-door hearings.

The committee planned a look into White House dealings with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. today and then will take up political contributions by the dairy industry late in the week.

Colson played a leading role in White House dealings with ITT and dairy groups, as well as activities of the White House plumbers.

Colson pleaded guilty to a single count of obstruction of justice Monday, saying he wants "to tell everything I know."

Colson's conversations with Nixon on a number of subjects involved in the committee inquiry are among tapes the committee has subpoenaed and Nixon has refused to provide.

Colson pleaded guilty Monday to a single count of obstructing justice in the trial of Daniel Ellsberg, accused of leaking the Pentagon papers. Under an arrangement with special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, Colson will not be prosecuted on three other charges in the Ellsberg case and in the Watergate cover-up.

Colson said he agreed to the arrangement so he would be free "to tell everything I know about the Watergate and Watergate-related matters."

The 42-year-old lawyer will be sentenced June 21 on a charge that he carried out a plan to "defame and destroy the public image and credibility" of Ellsberg. A felony, it carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

His arrangement with Jaworski is designed to make him available as a prosecution witness in the various trials the special prosecutor is preparing. But William Merrill, assistant special prosecutor, said Colson would be free to testify before the Judiciary Committee if he wants to.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., who hopes to speed up the inquiry by limiting the number of witnesses, would not comment about the possibility that Colson would be called, No decision will be made on witnesses, he said, until all documentary evidence has been presented in about three weeks.

Other committee members, however, said they hoped Colson would be called.

Earlier Monday, Robert McClory of Illinois became the first Republican on the commitee to speak in favor of finding Nixon in contempt of Congress, if that would result in getting the tapes the committee has subpoenaed.

The Senate Watergate Committee also may call Colson.

His importance as a potential witness in the impeachment inquiry is underscored in a Judiciary Committee staff memorandum to members justifying a request for various taped presidential conversations.

It lists nine telephone calls and meetings between Nixon and Colson bearing on the Watergate break-in, payments to keep the convicted burglars quiet and an alleged offer of executive clemency to one of them.

In the ITT antitrust settlement, which became involved in the Senate confirmation hearings of Richard Kleindienst as attorney general, Colson urged that the nomination be withdrawn.

"His reason included the possibility that documents would be revealed suggesting that the President was involved in the ITT situation ... " the memorandum says.

In 1970, it says, Colson served as the White House contact for the Associated Milk Producers Inc. and received its pledge for a $2 million contribution to Nixon's re-election campaign.

The committee is investigating whether milk price support increases were approved in return for the contributions.

In other Watergate-related developments:

—U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell accepted a White House suggestion to postpone a confrontation over evidence in the Ellsberg break-in case. However, Gesell repeated that final refusal by the White House to turn over documents needed by the defense could result in dismissal of the charges.

—The chairman of the nation's governors said the states are the ones responding to the problems of the Watergate era. "In a number of current issues, including government ethics, campaign finance reform, consumer protection and no-fault insurance, the record of many of the states has been one of decisive action in contrast to that of the national government," said Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington.

—A White House spokesman said Nixon discussed the possibility of making Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen director of the FBI, but no offer was ever made. The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin has reported that Petersen told a grand jury that Nixon asked him about the FBI job while Petersen was heading the Justice Department's Watergate investigation.

—The United Auto Workers' international convention nearly unanimously called for Nixon's impeachment.

Lesson No. 5 - City Riding Safety

In this lesson we will talk about riding your bike safely on the city streets. A later lesson will cover safe riding in the country.

Riding a bike in the city can be more dangerous than riding in the country because automobile traffic changes direction more frequently and quickly in the city. Also, there are so many more things that auto drivers must do in city traffic such as, stop quickly, back up, speed up, slow down, change lanes, etc. So, to be a safe bicyclist you must naturally be very alert while riding in city traffic.

Here are some rules you should learn and practice whenever you are going to ride on city streets:

1. Avoid riding on very busy streets. NEVER ride on an expressway or freeway.
2. Always be sure you have a good grip on your handle bars with BOTH hands.
3. Always ride on the right side of the street, close to the curb, but watch for parked cars or people opening their car doors.
4. When riding with other bicyclists, always ride in SINGLE FILE. Allow a full bike's length between your bike and the one ahead of you.
5. Always ride YOUR bike alone. Never carry a passenger or large bundles. This throws you off balance and blocks your vision.
6. STOP, look both directions, before entering the street from a sidewalk, driveway or alley. Remember, cars move much faster than bikes!
7. Obey all traffic signals, signs you see. They are for YOU as well as for all others on the streets!
8. NEVER hold onto any moving truck, car, motorcycle, or other vehicles, allowing it to pull you along. Many bicyclists have been hurt badly, some even killed, in this manner.
9. Avoid riding your bike after dark. But, if you must be sure you have proper lights, (see Lesson No. 1), and wear light colored clothing.
10. When approaching intersections that have no stop signs, or other traffic signals, be prepared to put on the brakes at a moment's notice.
11. When crossing streets with heavy traffic, stop, get off your bike, and walk it across the intersection at a crosswalk.
12. Do not ride your bicycle on the sidewalk at any time.
13. Let people crossing the street go first. Always slow down, or stop, if necessary, to let them finish crossing.
14. Never "show off" while riding on the street. If you want to do "trick riding" or play games on your bike with friends, find an empty lot or area off the street entirely.
15. NEVER follow close to a slow moving car or truck, or try to race with them. Chances are the driver would not see you and if he had to stop in a hurry you might hit the back of his vehicle and could be hurt badly.
16. When leaving the school grounds on your bike, stop and look both ways and enter traffic very carefully. The sudden rush of bicycles leaving a school grounds, going in various directions into traffic is extremely dangerous!

Ford says Mideast peace is new era in world history

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford said today that with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East peace achievements "a new era in world history, an era of negotiation and reconciliation, was 'made in U.S.A'."

Asserting that history will credit President Nixon's foreign policy initiatives, Ford said Watergate has focused attention away from what he called the Nixon administration's creative relationship with the rest of the world."

Ford's remarks were prepared for delivery to a breakfast meeting of the American Apparel Manufacturers Association in conjunction with its TEXPO '74, an American fashion textiles exposition.

"Secretary Kissinger's most recent mission was facilitated by the new climate that exists worldwide," Ford said. "This is the climate that ensued from the President's historic initiatives in visiting Moscow and Peking and in understandings reached there and in subsequent exchanges.

"I have said before—and I repeat today—that President Nixon has innovated and carried forward a bold and courageous foreign policy that history will credit in due perspective."

He said it was Nixon who chose and supported Kissinger "and gave full confidence and scope" to the negotiations.

Ford said Kissinger's skill was shown in narrowing the distance between the positions taken by Israel and Syria without imposing a settlement.

The vice president said the United States will continue to help Israel maintain an arms balance with her Arab neighbors, and said the Soviet Union is continuing to arm the Arabs.

Describing the advent of an important new era of negotiation and reconciliation, Ford said the world's people must live together without any longer being able to consider war as just another form of foreign policy.

"Our enemies are not other nations or peoples different from ourselves," Ford said. "Our enemies are hunger, disease, poverty, ignorance, hopelessness, fear and hatred.

P'ville council approves metal building purchase

PORTAGEVILLE -- The City Council Monday night approved the purchase of a metal frame building from Mitchell Engineering Co. of Rocky Mount, N.C. for the amount of $6,315 for an ambulance garage. The building will be erected behind the city hall.

Delivery date is expected by July 1. Ralph Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau was awarded a contract to erect the building for $2,597. In addition to the building and erection, a concrete floor will be installed by the city.

Girardeau Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau was awarded a contract for resurfacing and improvements to a number of streets. The cost will average about $2.25 per running foot. The city will pay 25 cents per foot and property owners will pay the balance of the cost.

The council hired Burton McDaniel as city dog catcher.

Union Electric increase compromise submitted

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.(AP)--A compromise that would allow a $37 million Union Electric rate increase was submitted to the Missouri Public Service Commission Monday after an agreement was reached between utility company officials and opposing consumer and business groups.

The compromise, subject to approval by the PSC would mean an increase of 14.4 per cent for residences, 15.1 per cent for small businesses and industry, and 12.7 per cent for large commercial and industrial users.

The agreement came just before public hearings were to begin on an earlier Union Electric request for a $57.8 million hike.

Judiciary members accepted donations from dairymen

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 16 members of the House Judiciary Committee accepted political donations ranging from $100 to $11,000 from the same three dairy farmer cooperatives the panel is investigating as part of its impeachment probe.

Two members, Democrat Charles B. Rangel of New York and Republican Thomas F. Railsback of Illinois, decided to return the money after being questioned about it by The Associated Press.

Rangel got $100 from Associated Milk Producers, Inc. last March, and sent it back Monday with a letter saying it would be improper for him to accept it.

An aide to Railsback said he would give back $500 that he received from the same group in 1972 "because he wants to be free of any conflict of interest."

The others, including committee chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., who got $4,100, said they saw no conflict.

The biggest recorded donation went to Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, a first-term Democrat from Iowa, who got $11,000.

According to public records going back to April 7, 1972, these committee members were given money by one or more of the co-ops, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., Dairymen, Inc., and Mid-America Dairymen, Inc.:

M. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., $1,500; William S. Cohen, R-Maine, $3,000; John Conyers Jr., D-Mich. $100; David W. Dennis, R-Ind., $500; Walter Flowers, D-Ala., $1,000; Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis., $100; William L. Hungate, D-Mo., $2,300; Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., $2,650; Trent Lott, R-Miss., $2,500; Robert McClory, R-Ill., $500; Mezvinsky, $11,000; Wayne Owens, D-Utah, $2,600; Railsback, $500; Rangel, $100; Rodino, $4,100 and Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., $200.

Kastenmeier, Hungate and Flowers were among sponsors of legislation to raise the federal support price for milk in 1971. The White House has cited this legislation, sponsored eventually by 121 House members, as a key reason President Nixon overruled the Agriculture Department and raised milk price supports in March 1971.

The Judiciary Committee is scheduled to begin soon a formal inquiry into allegations that Nixon raised prices because of a promise of $2 million in political donations from the dairy cooperatives. The White House has said Nixon knew about the promise of money but wasn't influenced by it.

Public records show that members of the Judiciary Committee received $32,650 after April 7, 1972, $24,050 of it to nine Democrats, $8,600 to seven Republicans. Records of congressional donations before that date are no longer available for public view.

Rep. Hungate summed up what many of his colleagues said:

"If Mr. Nixon received and reported a legitimate campaign donation, as I did, he's in no trouble. If he sought and received a bribe, as I did not, he is in deep trouble."

Meat price compromise sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department hopes to gain a compromise among meat packers and retail food chains that could result in lower meat prices for consumers, higher prices for farmers or both.

Don Paarlberg, director of economics for USDA, said today he hopes representatives of the meat-supply pipeline can be brought together in a meeting soon to see if something can be done about current price margins charged by packers and retailers.

"Nothing is set," Paarlberg told a reporter, "but we hope something can be done in the very near future."

Objectives of such a meeting would be to see if more beef and other meat could be moved through consumer channels and relieve an oversupply which currently has helped depress farm prices.

Paarlberg said he could not recall USDA attempting to hold such a meeting among all sectors of the meat industry, from farmer to retailer, although the Cost of Living Council had brought representatives together in the past.

The plan was first disclosed Monday at a meeting between Paarlberg and a group of Midwest cattle producers who complained about low prices and the wide margins middlemen are charging between farmers and consumers.

Paarlberg said the cattle producers, in his view, had a "justifiable complant" and that farm-to-retail margins could be reduced by lowering the store price of meat or by raising prices farmers get for cattle.

Although consumers have seen some lower meat prices in recent weeks, USDA experts say middlemen have not passed along most of the reduction in prices that livestock producers have absorbed for many months.

At a White House briefing Monday, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said many people are not aware that food prices have stopped rising, and, in the case of meat, have come down from peaks last winter.

In fact, Butz said, beef prices have dropped "rather substantially" this spring. Asked if he thought retail food prices generally, which showed a decline in April, would begin rising again, Butz said he did not, "unless labor costs run it up."

Prices of choice slaughter cattle in the midwest this week were around $38 per 100 pounds live weight, compared with a high of $49.75 last January. The record was $56.25 last August.

Meantime, corn and other feed costs have held relatively high and have resulted in cattle feeders losing money when they sell stock at depressed market prices.

Lutheran board advises against divisive groups

ST. LOUIS (AP)--The board of directors of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod issued a warning Monday to church members against groups that "polarize or divide the synod."

In a four-page position paper, the synod directors specifically singled out Evangelical Lutherans in Mission (ELIM) as being divisive within the church.

ELIM has philosophically and financially supported dissident students who left Concordia Seminary in Clayton, Mo., last winter following the dismissal of Concordia President the Rev. Dr. John Tietjen and formed their own "seminary-in-exile."

The church board said ELIM's action made it "substantially a church within a church," a violation of the synod's constitution. The position statement cited a synodical resolution that said congregations and individuals had no right under the constitution to perform duties that rightfully belong only to appointed or elected synod officials.

The position paper was issued following a meeting between the synod directors and members of ELIM and is being sent to all congregational chairmen and pastors.

CHICAGO (AP) — A new method for making paper from corn starch was recently reported in Prairie Farmer, one of the nation's leading rural magazines.

The magazine says chemists at the USDA Northern Regional laboratory in Peoria Ill., have developed the corn starch derivative as a stable ready-to-use liquid. Paper made from this particular type of starch can be recycled, thus conserving timber and reducing costs.

Astaire wants 'to make good'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"The main thing I want to do is make good. The only way I can be satisfied is if I'm not letting anyone down — either the audience, or my fellow performers, or myself."

The words may sound like those of a young star of a new television series, but they came from Fred Astaire, who is marking his 68th year in show business at the age of 75. He is back at work, not dancing this time out, but conveying the Astaire grace to the role of a con man in the all-star "The Towering Inferno."

The eyes have a slight glisten, and the face is more sharply angled, but Astaire remains impeccably slim and thoroughly ageless.

Even though he wasn't working, he came to 20th CenturyFox studio for an interview and to witness the first scene between Paul Newman and Steve McQueen. Astaire was eager to watch McQueen's prank of wearing three-inch platform shoes so he would tower over Newman.

"I don't call myself an actor," said Astaire with his customary modesty, "but I've had some practice at it. I did a few things as a kid; if you'd read my autobiography, you'd know that I played Roxanne to my sister Adele's Cyrano de Bergerac."

He recalled some of his nonmusicials: "Notorious Landlady," "On The Beach," "Midas Run" plus his television work in "It Takes a Thief," "The Over the Hill Gang" and his Wlcoa series — "I took it so I could get training in straight roles."

Will he dance again? "Not in a full-scale musical film nor the kind of TV special that used to win him a cartload of Emmies.

"That's not for Mr. 75-year-old Astaire," he said emphatically. "I did the last special when I was 70 or so, and I had to run a four-minute mile. It's a helluva strenuous life, the way I do a show.

Kidnapped executive released unharmed

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — "I put myself in the hands of the Lord, and I was never afraid," Tulsa businessman Walter H. Helmerich said after his eight-hour kidnaping ended with payment of a ransom unofficially reported at $700,000.

The FBI said no arrests have been made.

Helmerich, 51, millionaire president of Helmerich and Payne, Inc., a worldwide oil drilling company, and director in numerous other firms, was released unharmed Monday by what he called a "very thoughtful" kidnaper.

A lone man stopped Helmerich's car while he was on his way to work. He said it was his normal route to the office and the kidnaper evidently knew it.

Helmerich said he was blindfolded, bound and forced to ride on the floor of a car until his release near a tank farm at Jenks, a small town five miles south of Tulsa. Helmerich said the abductor stopped frequently, apparently making telephone calls.

The FBI said a ransom demand sent to the Utica National Bank, partly owned by Helmerich family members, was met by Walter H. Helmerich Jr., father of the victim.

SAMANTHA BERRY

Former Canalou woman pursues nursing career

HANFORD, CALIF.-- Samantha Berry of Lemoore, Calif., daughter of Mrs. Edna Harr of Canalou, Mo. and the late V.E. Harr waited until her family was raised to pursue an education and vocation.

Mrs. Berry graduated May 23 from the Licensed Vocational Nursing students program in Hanford, Calif.

She was raised in Canalou, and said she didn't even complete the eighth grade. She held numerous jobs while living in the Los Angeles area and began her studies when she and her husband, Hoyt, moved to the Lemoore area.

She attended adult night school and received her high school diploma in 1972. She then enrolled in the LVN program after a semester at Fressno City College in Fresno.

"This is the first opportunity I've had to fulfill what I've always wanted to do," she says, "I've always wanted to be a nurse and this program has meant a lot to me and made a lot of things possible."

Mrs. Berry will continue working at Hanford Community Hospital where she had been working throughout the program. In July she will take her state LVN examination in Los Angeles. Her new plans are to enroll in a pharmacology ciass at the College of the Sequoias in Central California in the fall. She still has her sights on being a registered nurse.

Legislation urged restoring Vets Day to Nov. 11

WASHINGTON (AP) Veterans organizations Monday urged legislation to restore November 11 as the official date for the observance of Veterans Day.

In 1968 Congress passed a bill, effective three years later, providing for observance of the Veterans Day holiday on the fourth Monday in October.

The bill also set Mondays for Memorial Day, Columbus Day and Washington's birthday to be observed as federal holidays. This, combined with Labor Day, assured five three-day holiday weekends each year.

Although the legislation applied only to federal employes and the District of Columbia, most states passed measures conforming with the federal law.

Herald E. Stringer, testifying for the American Legion before a Senate judiciary subcommittee, said his group believes "the historical significance of Veterans Day far outweights the convenience of three-day weekends."

"This day, rich in historic and patriotic meaning for Americans, should not be sacrificed to the commercialism of holiday bargain sales or to the production of economic benefit to certain segments of industry," he said.

Spokesmen for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, and the Noncommissioned Officers Association of the United States also urged that November 11 be redesignated as Veterans Day.

President Nixon has asked Congress to do this, and numerous bills have been introduced in the Senate and House to return to the traditional date for the Veterans Day holiday.

Among Senate sponsors of such legislation who testified at the subcommittee hearing were Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., James B. Allen, D-Ala., and Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb.

Two states, Mississippi and Oklahoma, never changed their laws to conform with the federal act

'Rising prices cause schools financial trouble'

COLUMBIA — "Missouri school districts are experiencing serious financial problems as a result of increasing costs and inelastic revenue sources" stated Tom Penn of Columbia, executive secretary of The Missouri State Teachers Association, as he released information from the Association's Committee on Sources of School Revenue which met recently in Columbia.

"The failure of the state to provide a higher level of state support for schools does not avoid a tax increase but transfers the need for it to the school district level" Penn noted. "There the local citizens must choose between higher property tax and deteriorating schools. In many school districts which now have a current levy of $3.75 or more those who wish to maintain schools are requested to win by a two to one majority."

Schools have not been able to avoid the continuing inflationary spiral but are seriously affected by it, Penn said. The major expenditure of schools is for personnel. During a period in which the consumer price index has advanced more than 10 per cent in a year employes face real hardships unless adequate salary adjustments can be made. Few school districts are able to adjust salaries to meet the increase in the cost of living. Many costs of schools such as those related to transportation and heating as well as the cost of all paper products have increased even more than living costs.

Schools have been asked or required to assume greater responsibility in the costly areas of vocational eduction and the education of the handicapped. While additional state funds are provided for these programs there are very substantial additional costs that must be borne locally. The additional local costs for these new programs must come from the districts' locally produced revenue which has not increased as a result of new programs.

House Bill 474 enacted in 1973, requiring an extension of education to all handicapped pupils, to be implemented this year is a prime example of the required extension of school programs. The revised school classification standards, while designed to provide better education, will also be more expensive.

The higher federal minimum wage law and the required coverage of all school employes by workmen's compensation will also add to the costs of school districts.

While significant progress in financing education in Missouri was made during the period from 1969 to 1972 when the state had a commitment to increase state school funds by $35 million per year these gains have been greatly eroded by the inflation of recent years. Fifty- fifty state and local financing of the current operation of schools, an objective of the 1969 revision of the school foundation program, has not been achieved. Missouri's expenditures for teachers' salaries and the average expenditure per pupil in Missouri remain below Missouri's ability to finance education as indicated byMissouri's per capita income and other measures of financial ability.

The increased costs of education must be met from local, state, and federal funds.

Federal funds which have been decreasing are restricted to the support of special programs such as for the disadvantaged and vocational education.

State funds are distributed under the school foundation program on an equalization formula and for other special purposes. Funds for the school foundation program were increased $27.7 million for the 1974-75 school year. However, when the increase is reduced by the $12 million expected to be needed to finance the expanded special education program, the per cent of increase in the school foundation program is about four per cent. It is evident that this does not match increasing costs on the state portion of school revenue.

Local revenue still constitutes more than 50 percent of the operating funds of school districts, with the state supplying 42 percent and the federal eight per cent.

In fiscal years 1972 and 1973 locally produced funds for the operating of schools increased about four per cent per year. This was due chiefly to the increase in assessed valuation rather than higher school levies.

More school districts found it necessary to submit higher tax levies to the voters for 1974-75 with over 160 school districts including Kansas City and St. Louis submitting levies. Seventy- two per cent of the higher proposals voted on prior to April 26, were approved according to a survey by the State Department of Education.

In securing additional local funds for the operation of schools the most serious problem exists in 85 school districts which now have current operating levies of $3.75 or higher. Any increase in the local levies in these districts must, under the Missouri Constitution, be approved by a two- thirds majority vote. Forty- one percent of Missouri's pupils live in these districts.

Since it is public policy as expressed in Missouri's Constitution to make adequate financing of public education difficult at the local level it would seem that a higher than average level of funding should be provided by the state. A continuing significant increase in state funds should be provided for schools. The constitution provides that the general assembly shall establish and maintain free public schools.

Additional problems in school finance may be anticipated in the 1975-76 school year due to the loss of funds from the general intangible tax unless corrected by legislation by the next general assembly. The general intangible tax is providing about $20 million to local political subdivisions of which school districts receive $12 or $13 million. Since intangible tax receipts are deductible under the school foundation program the effect of the loss of this revenue is the same as a reduction of state appropriation to schools of that amount. Also while the law repealing the property tax on household goods provides for the replacement of the $14 million lost by local political subdivisions question has been raised on the implementations of the provision for replacement. School districts receive the greatest part of the local property tax and will have the greatest loss if the revenue is not replaced.

With regard to meeting the financial needs of the schools the fiscal capacity of the state is not nearly so limited as local school districts which are restricted to the property tax. Missouri's state taxes are low in relation to other states. Missouri ranked 43rd in per capita state taxes in fiscal 1973 and 45th in state taxes as a percent of income. If Missouri had collected the average per capita state tax in the nation in fiscal 1973 Missouri's state revenue would have been $355 million greater.

Gardner says governors provide state leadership

SEATTLE (AP) — A leading advocate of political reform told the nation's governors today that amidst the Watergate scandals "the states have been far more responsive than Congress to the citizen's concern for a housecleaning in politics."

John W. Gardner said in a speech prepared for a discussion of governmental ethics at the National Governors' Conference that governors "have provided state leadership at a time when leadership has been totally absent at the national level."

Gardner, president of the self-styled citizens' lobby, Common Cause, said that in the last 18 months at least 40 states have passed political reform measures, while on the federal level "the executive branch has been totally unresponsive and the Congress equally so."

He urged all states to enact measures providing for campaign financing reform and broader disclosure by public officials and lobbyists, the central points in a Common Cause backed resolution sponsored here by Govs. William G. Milliken, R-Mich., and Patrick J. Lucey, D-Wis.

Milliken, in remarks prepared for the same discussion, said "one of the primary tasks facing all of us in public life today is to assure that there is an ethical compass not only for the nation—but also for every state."

Wrong Amick given credit as hitter

Rand Amick, a young man who believes in giving credit where credit is due, wrote a letter to The Daily Standard sports department pointing out discrepancies in an article about the Southeast Missouri State University baseball team that appeared in the May 29 edition of The Daily Standard sports sectionl

Amick said the article erroneously credited him, a freshman, with leading the SeMo State team in five hitting departments. He said the team leader with a .382 batting average, 102 at bats, 22 runs, 30 hits and six doubles was actually Mark Amick, a sophomore and brother of Rand, The Amicks hail from Scott City.

"I definitely enjoy reading my name in the sports section but I feel the credit given to me in this article is a little undeserving," Amick wrote.

In his letter, Amick also pointed out another similar mistake in the article which credited Rick Blankenship of Sikeston with fashioning a 4-3 season record for the Tribe with a 3.09 earned run average. The pitcher for the Indians was Bob Blankenship, not Rick, Amick stated. The Blankenships are also brothers.

Sports

BATTING—Mike Schmidt, Phillies, drove in two runs with a single and his 11th home run of the year and fourth in the last seven games, leading Philadelphia to a 5-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

PITCHING—Bill Hands, Twins, hurled 4 2-3 innings of hitless relief with eight strikeouts and recorded his 100th career triumph as Minnesota edged the Boston Red Sox 5-4 in 12 innings.

Sikeston boys take net honors

Sikeston boys and Caruthersville girls dominated the under 15 division singles and placed second in doubles during Sikeston Country Club's second annual juniors open tennis tournament Saturday and Sunday on the club's courts.

The boys 15-18 division was not completed and has finals scheduled in both singles and doubles at 1 p.m. Saturday at the country club. Chris Leonard of Festus and Scott Loos of Cape Girardeau are matched in the singles final, and Loos and Rob Weeks of Cape Girardeau will tangle with Leonard and Scott Matein of Festus for the doubles crown.

David Potashnick and Mark Heeb of Sikeston finished first and second in the boys under 15 division singles. Heeb also teamed up with Johnny Greer to win the doubles championship, and Potashnick teamed with Chris Matthews to finish second as Sikeston entrants completed a sweep of division honors.

In the girls under 15 division, Jimmy Jean Bullington and Cathy Dodd of Caruthersville placed first and second in singles and joined forces to win the doubles championship. Runners-up in doubles competition were Beth Spencer and Penny Jones, also of Caruthersville.

Runner-up to Miss Hill in the girls 15-18 division singles was Karen Bullington of Caruthersville, who turned the tables on her Dexter opponent in doubles by teaming with Carla Hutchinson of Caruthersville to defeat Miss Hill and partner Elizabeth Dupont of Sikeston in the championship match.

Public image influences Bradshaw's decision

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Terry Bradshaw was at the news conference to announce he had spurned the World Football League to stay with the Pittsburgh Steelers, but in casual chatter beforehand he mentioned his beef cattle spread in Louisiana.

"There's a lot more money right now in raising hogs, but it sounds better to say you have a ranch than a pig farm," he said with a grin as he flicked an ash from a long cigar.

That same regard for his public image may have influenced Bradshaw's decision to sign a new multiyear contract with Pittsburgh of the National Football League, even though there were hints the New York Stars of WFL offered more money.

"Well, I didn't like the idea of playing in small stadiums that may not be filled ... and I still haven't taken this team to a Super Bowl," acknowledged the 25-year-old quarterback, first choice in the 1970 NFL draft.

Bradshaw, who still has a year left on his current five-year agreement with Pittsburgh, added that he had doubts about whether the WFL can survive.

Another of Bradshaw's misgivings included joining a league that is still rounding up players and coaches and even more basically gathering equipment.

Bradshaw was not selected in the WFL draft, but he was contacted later by New York Stars' Coach Babe Parilli, who tutored Bradshaw the past three seasons as an assistant at Pittsburgh.

"We did get a very substantial first offer from New York, and we were told we could expect an even more substantial second offer," said Bradshaw's attorney Les Zittrain.

Yet Zittrain said the second offer was never solicited and that Bradshaw signed with the Steelers late Saturday afternoon. Details of the new contract were not disclosed.

Royals slate tryouts next Monday at Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The Kansas City Royals' annual search for talent is under way again and much of the effort is being concentrated in a series of tryout camps. One such camp is scheduled at Capaha Park in Cape Girardeau next Monday and will start promptly at 10 a.m.

The tryout camp will be conducted by Gary Blaylock, eastern scouting director, and assisted by Gerald "Dub" Adams, a member of the scouting department.

Participants need to bring their own gloves, shoes and uniforms (or other athletic clothing).

The Royals will provide all other necessary equipment. Any costs incurred in getting to the camp must be assumed by the candidates in order to protect their amateur standing and American Legion players must bring written permission from their coach or post commander.

New Hamburg nabs win

NEW HAMBURG -- A home run by David Pobst sparked the New Hamburg Falstaffs to two sixth inning runs which provided the margin of a 3-1 victory Monday night over the Cape Girardeau Jets in SeMo Softball League play.

Don Kern scattered five hits while striking out five and issuing no walks to notch the mound victory. Nix, the losing moundsman also yielded five hits and walked one.

The victory evened New Hamburg's record at 3-3 going into the next game Wednesday at Scott City when the team will attempt to climb over the .500 mark.

DETROIT (AP) — Charles C. "Charlie" Creedon, former longtime front office official of the Detroit Tigers, died Monday after a heart attack Sunday. He was 68.

LL play kicks off

Sikeston's 1974 Little League season is officially under way following a full slate of six games in three leagues played Monday night on three fields.

Musial League openers found Collins Construction a 10-5 winner over Bank of Sikeston and Hart's Bread an 8-6 victor over Kingsway Plaza.

Collins collected its 10 runs with seven hits, including two each by Harshburger and Sherman, while Bank of Sikeston knocked the same number of hits, including three by Glaus and two by Clark. Stinnett was the winning pitcher and Glaus the loser.

Hart's notched its eight runs on seven hits to give Davis the pitching victory over Gardner and his Kingsway Plaza mates, who garnered only three hits.

In the National League, the Jaycees opened the season with a hard- fought 9-7 decision over Lewis Furniture, despite two hits by Lewis's Dennis Chappell, including the only home run in opening night play in the three leagues.

Hammock and winning pitcher Smith socked two hits each for the winners, who outhit Lewis 8-6. Bohannon was the loser

Kiwanis bested Security National Bank in a 4-1 pitching duel in the other National League contest. Both teams collected four hits, including doubles by D. Curtis and D. Harper of Kiwanis and R. Dodd of Security National. Campbell was the mound winner over Rodgers.

American League opening night contests saw Bridger Plumbing & Heating trounce Caproco by a 16-5 margin and Fabick Bros. shellack Righter Trucking by 19-0.

Glaus belted three hits and McKinney, Marks and Williams contributed two each to pace Bridger's 11-hit attack. Williams, the winning pitcher, limited Caproco to two hits.

Garner and Cecil had two hits apiece to lead Fabick's eight- hit, 19- run attack. A Williams was the winning pitcher in this game, too, as Righter managed only two hits.

Little Leagues swing into action

Typical of the opening night series of six Sikeston Little League baseball play Monday night, the pitchers have yet to find their control and the hitters and fielders need a few games under their belt to hit their stride. Above, a high, hard pitch chases the batter away from the plate in the Bridger- Caproco game won by Bridger 16-5 in American League competition.

Leible, Optimist emerge winners

Leible Implement Co. clouted Elks to 10 -3 and Optimist edged Security National Bank 9 -7 in Senior Babe Ruth League play Monday night.

Schatzley collected four hits for a perfect night at the plate and Leible and Dyer added two hits each to lead the Leible attack and make the winning pitching task easy for Walker. Stokes scored three times and Schatzley twice for the winners. Elks collected only four hits, all by different players.

Optimist collected only three hits but managed two runs each by Miller, Lewis and Hesselrode and single markers by Lawrence, Eisenbach and Alberts en route to the win over Security National's Blankenship. Hesselrode, Eisenbach and Lawrence had the three hits.

Nunnelee gained the mound victory, although Security National doubled Optimist's hit total with six including two each by Blankenship and Shell.

Cape team wins 4-ball tourney

The team of Vogelsang and Wadlington of Cape Girardeau captured championship honors in the annual Sikeston Four -Ball Golf Tournament played Saturday and Sunday at Sikeston Country Club.

The Cape duo fired a 67 Sunday to go along with a 66 for the first 18 holes on Saturday for a first place total of 133, giving them a two -shot edge over the next best total.

D. Newberry of Sikeston and M. Lynch of Dexter emerged from a three -team deadlock for runner -up honors by posting a birdie on the first extra hole to win the second place playoff.

Newberry and Lynch had finished regulation 36 -hole play with a 135 total, which was matched by G. Dawson of Sikeston and B. McBride of Cape Girardeau and the team of J. Warf and D. Bowman of Sikeston. Dawson and McBride parred the playoff hole to finish third, while Warf and Bowman shot a bogey and finished fourth.

Students From 68 Countries Attend U.N. School

By GENE KRAMER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The 1,316 boys and girls of the United Nations International School hail from 68 countries. But wearing blue jeans and sprawled about the carpeted classrooms and corridors, they look like typical American youngsters.

The high school students especially "dress atrociously," the school is too permissive and there's too little grammar drill, Mrs. Seniha Halman, a Turkish official in the U.N. Secretariat, told a reporter.

But, "The saving grace," she added, "is that my daughter, Defne, is in a school where she refers to a Senegalese boy by his name, Abdu, without any reference to the fact that he is black."

Many foreign parents are surprised by the casualness of the school but a great many say this is no problem so long as their children are happy.

Americans are the largest single national group at the $13.5-million educational plant beside the East River a mile south of U.N. headquarters.

They tend to be the pacesetters and they and their tuition money are welcome — provided they don't become too numerous.

To preserve the international character of the school, there's a ceiling of 50 per cent on the part of the student body from non-U.N. and nondiplomatic families, meaning New Yorkers.

With 616 Americans this year, the percentage hit a record 47.

In its informality, UNIS, as the place is called, resembles an American high school but in terms of scholarship it's on the superior side.

"It is almost frightening. . .some of our students want to take eight or nine subjects when they would have to take only four or five in another New York private or public school," the assistant director, Maurice Pezet of France, said.

"That's 38 to 40 forty-minute periods a week, compared to 20 to 25 in a high school," Pezet added. "We have to slow some of them down."

Desmond Cole, an Englishman who has been director of UNIS for the past decade, said the youngsters study with high motivation because most come from families that regard education as a passport to success. A combination, he explained, of students from foreign countries where education is traditionally a privilege, and Americans from "successful, progressive, middle class, ambitious families."

Pezet said that to gain greater diversity among the Americans the school hopes to provide more financial aid to talented but needy students from the minority ghettoes of New York.

Tuition ranges from $1,825 for kindergarten to $2,550 a year for the 12th and highest grade, slightly less than at the city's top private schools.

UNIS distributed $120,000 in scholarships among 190 children the past year, much of it to U.N. children not enjoying educational allowances from their governments.

Children of U.N. and diplomatic families are admitted automatically. The school was flooded with more than 2,000 applications for its remaining places the past year.

Educational quality and the good rate of college placement were among reasons New York parents gave for sending their children to UNIS. But mostly it was the school's international atmosphere.

"I think what the United Nations is supposed to stand for is why we send our kids there," said Mrs. Ella Ettinger, the mother of 8-and 11-year-old girls. "The U.N. is the way we thought the world should be and it is the kind of atmosphere we want our children to be in."

Pezet said he regards the diverse background of the 115 UNIS teachers from five continents as perhaps even more valuable than "playing volleyball with someone from Pakistan." He said the school hopes to recruit more teachers from the Third World — Africa, Asia and Latin America.

In a few weeks social studies classes will act out the American Revolution. Some students will argue that taxation without representation is tyranny while others will denounce the colonists as smugglers and tax chiselers.

It's an example of how, as a school sponsored by the United Nations and U.N. member countries, UNIS tries to teach history independently of national traditions and orientations.

Mother tongues and other languages are taught whenever 10 or more students sign up. The school presently gives Latin, Arabic, Chinese, German, Hebrew, Hindi, Japanese, Polish, Portuguese, Spanish, Swedish and Urdu.

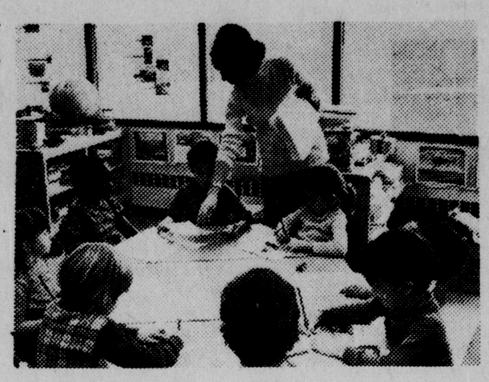
Most UNIS graduates go on to leading universities in the United States and the Commonwealth. A growing number go to Canada because of advantageous financial arrangements there for foreign students.

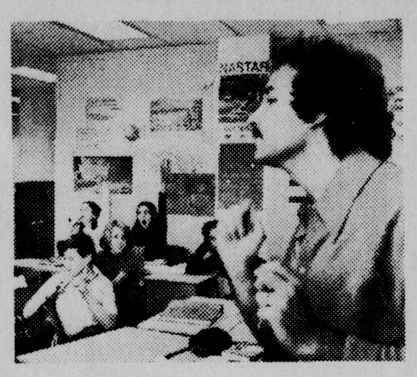
UNIS now offers a super-tough "International Baccalaureate" sequence of courses recognized as entrance qualifications for universities around the world.

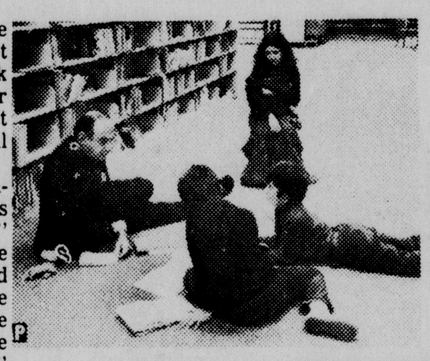
The teachers describe their students as self-reliant with few disciplinary problems.

Older students may have experimented with smoking pot, Cole said, "but never anything stronger." He said the reason there is no hard drug problem is the favorable ratio of one teacher for every dozen students.

It means, the director explained, that there is no alienation — "Every student has adults he can talk to."







THE UNITED NATIONS INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL—Considered permissive and rather casual by some of the parents, UNIS nevertheless was swamped with more than 2,000 applications for its remaining places last year. With students taking eight or nine subjects as opposed to four or five in the public and even some private schools, parents remain impressed with the high level of acceptance into leading universities in the United States and the Commonwealth.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures

The Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo. Tuesday, June 4, 1974 — 14

FIRST KENTUCKY SETTLEMENT FORT HARROD 1774 1974

The 200th anniversary of the first settlement of Kentucky will be hailed on a new U.S. 10-cent stamp June 15. The main design features a view of the settlement at Ford Harrod, from which developed the town of Harrodsburg where the stamp will have first-day ceremonies.

James Harrod and 32 other men from Pennsylvania undertook construction of the fort 24 years after the discovery of the Cumberland Gap. Harrod's group paddled canoes down the Ohio River and up the Kentucky River to the region known as the Bluegrass. There, on a high plateau, they built the fort which holds the distinction of being the first English settlement west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Eighteen years after the founding of the fort and the settlement, Kentucky was admitted to the Union as the 15th state.

The new stamp depicts settlers in ox-drawn wagons approaching the log buildings of the fort. At the top of the stamp, in four lines, appears: "First Kentucky Settlement — Fort Harrod — 1774-1974." In the bottom right corner is "US 10-cents." The colors are yellow, orange, blue, green and black.

First-day cancellation requests may be sent to "Fort Harrod Stamps," Postmaster, Harrodsburg, Ky. 40330." Proper remittance (10 cents in money order) must be enclosed and postmarked no later than June 15.

It is interesting to note that the anniversary date is actually June 16 but since that is a Sunday, the stamps are being issued on the prior day.

The United Nations Postal Administration has issued a new commemorative stamp in its "Art at the United Nations" series. The main design shows "The Peace Mural" by Candido Portinari of Brazil located in the delegates' lobby of the General Assembly building at U.N. headquarters in New York.

Football clinic begins

A two- week football clinic for prospective candidates for all junior and senior high football teams in the Sikeston public school athletic program started Monday and will continue with daily sessions through June 14 at Public School Stadium. Conducted by members of the coaching staff, the clinic will concentrate on fundamentals to get the players ready for the fall. Going through drills, above, are freshman candidated, from left, Tee Grojean, Jim McAfee and Scott Lavalle.

Moss knows meaning of pain

CAPE GIRARDEAU--When anybody talks about what it takes to play professional football, the ability to endure pain is always mentioned and then forgotton, like some drudging, unreal task. It's the stamp on the membership card, the great writer's neurosis and the cigarette's butt. It has to be.

Eddie Moss knows about football aches and twinges and about its racking anquishes. He has played football for almost half his 25 years and has lost blood, confidence and even a brother on football fields from Poplar Bluff to Buffalo, N.Y. Yet the fact that he loves what he's doing is as visible as the cracked front tooth in the bearded face.

Eddie Moss is the director of the Cape Girardeau Civic Center until he leaves that position this summer to join the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp. It's apparent that he takes great delight in this job, too. They're going to miss him when he's gone.

Where he's going is the campus of Illinois State University at Normal. He'll try to win back the starting berth lost a year ago when he blocked a Philadelphia Eagle and a bicep muscle snapped like baling wire. The injury was unusual, and painful, but has healed completely. That leaves only the worry of wresting a position from backfield starters Terry Metcalf and Donny Anderson, along with an old newcomer named Ken Willard, acquired in a trade with the San Francisco 49'ers.

A lot of people from this area will be thinking, "Come on Eddie," when he gives it a try. He played high school football at Poplar Bluff under Jim Lohr, now the head coach for Southeast Missouri State University. Brothers Leroy and Hosea were standouts there before moving on to play college football, and Mike, who played tailback for the Mules last year,will be a junior.

Leroy was at times spectacular while at the University of Missouri and plans to play in the Canadian Football League this season.

Hosea, who was an all -state football and basketball player in high school, enrolled at Fort Scott Junior College in Kansas. After graduation he complained of leg pain on the first day of fall practice and died that night in a Fort Scott hospital at the age of 19.Poplar Bluff High School retired his jersey.

Eddie played junior college football at Centerville, Iowa, for two years before coming to SeMo. State. The 6 -foot, 220 -pounder was an All -MIAA fullback, graduating in 1972 with a bachelor of science in education. He was drafted in the seventh round by Buffalo, but O.J. Simpson proved too much competition. He returned to Poplar Bluff as a teacher's aide and assistant football coach.

After attending a Cardinal tryout session in the spring of 1973, Eddie was asked to join the summer camp, where he impressed the Redbird coaches with his determination to learn and perform the duties of a blocking back. he could run too.

But all the concern with plays and opposing linebackers stopped abruptly when the right arm gave way. After a lot of treatment by the Cardianl physicain, who had never dealt with such an injur before, Eddie returned to Cape Girardeau to let his wounds heal while regrouping for another try. In the meantime he accepted the opening at the civic enter.

Under his supervision, the center entertains about 45 kids a day with cooking classes, piano lessons, shuffleboard, basketball, art classes and just about anything else anyone can think of doing. There is a kitchen for feeding the Head Start classes, which also use the building. He and assistant director Elsie Gaden put together a sickle cell test program last weekend, free of charge and administered by volunteers.

He says money is not really a problem at the center, but wants to see parents get more involved. "They should spend some time with the kids, participate in activites, help us get a Boy Scout troop started," says Moss. "They just come down to pick up the kid and "whsht' they're gone."

Eddie Moss has endeared himself to a lot of people in his still -brief career -from football coaches, to a civic center board of directors, to a bunch of kids who respond to his quick humor and patient authority with god-like homage. He could have done more here and might return someday, but right now it's time to yell, "Come on Eddie."

Thomas Schiwitz of Chaffee was hired by the council as a full time patrolman on the Chaffee Police Department.

Raymond Dame, owner of Dame Lumber Co. in Chaffee, requested that a lot on 705 Main St. be rezoned for a multiple family apartment building.

Dexter council changes location of voting booth

DEXTER — The City Council voted Monday night to advertise for bids to purchase a new police car. The bid price will include the trade- in of a 1972 model and bids will be open at the June 17 meeting.

In all future elections, including today's special election to elect trustees to the Stoddard County Ambulance District, voting booths will be placed in the room to the rear and extreme west side of the city administration building and all voters will be required to use the west entrance door. Mayor Willis Conner said the council is taking this step due to recent criticism that city employes who work in the building are interfering with election procedures.

He further stated that it is impossible to close city offices during an election. All doors leading to the voting room to other parts of the building will be closed and locked during an election.

The council voted by a four to one margin to issue a beer license to Harley's Restaurant on Highway 114 West. Action on the matter was delayed from the May 20 meeting to allow the city attorney time to check a recent ordinance which was thought to limit the number of licenses which could be issued. It was discovered that the ordinance only applies to package liquor licenses and that two additional beer licenses were available. The new restaurant will occupy the building which formerly housed The Friendly Motel.

The council passed a resolution commending the Dexter National Guard unit for outstanding service rendered the community on June 1 and 2 when they picked up trash throughout the city.

Permission was granted the water department to erect a small block building at the new water treatment plant for storage purposes.

Earl Sawyer and Robert Godwin of Poplar Bluff, representatives of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., discussed the progress made in buying cables in the city and promised quick repairs of any damage done to city streets. The half million dollar project will provide improved telephone service to Dexter residents and to rural customers in the area west of Dexter to Dudley.

In other action, a license for vending machines was issued to Wayne Jackson for his business located at 403 Park Lane.

An electrical refrigeration and coiling license was renewed for Charles Everett and Paul Wilson of Sikeston.

Mayor Conner read a letter from the Missouri Department of Health commending the city of Dexter for its excellent water department and giving the results of the May 14 inspection of the new water treatment plant.

The council asked the city attorney to draw up an ordinance regarding the demolition of condemned buildings within the city. The council is scheduled to vote on the ordinance at the June 17 meeting.

Total disbursements for the month of May were $38,970.90.

Madrid street improvements authorized by City Council

NEW MADRID -The City Council Monday night authorized street improvements, granted a liquor license, discussed the sale of electrical power and authorized power plant construction payments.

Full approval by the council for advertising on the intent to resurface several streets was made. Streets proposed to be resurfaced include Brush Prairie, Pinnell, Hunter, First, Second, Kingshighway and Riley.

If property owners do not object to the street paving, the city will ask for the passage of a bond issue to finance the drainage for the streets. Most of the streets have an engineering estimate of $8 per property foot.

The bond issue will also ask for funds to extend sewer service to the Billy Goat Hill area in the southwest section of the city.

Charles Lawrence and Buddy Dolan were authorized a liquor license for the premises known as Roy's Lounge on Main Street, providing they comply with residency requirements.

The sale of 10,000 kilowatts of power from the city's power station to the city of Kennett was discussed. A committee composed of aldermen Bill Boyd, Ed LaValle, and Mayor Jim Cravens was named to meet with Kennett representatives in New Madrid Thursday for the discussion and negotiation of the contract.

Construction payments totaling $97,104.12 for power plant construction in St. Jude Industrial Park were approved.

Aldermen Ras Jones and Joe Hunter and City Administrator Don Lloyd were appointed to a committee for the formation of plans for the city's solid waste disposal with necessary specifications required to submit the plan for bids.

The board agreed to begin June 15 the enforcement of ordinances requiring grass and weeds to be cut on vacant lots and that abandoned dwellings be torn down.

Administrator Lloyd was authorized to check into complaints that mowing equipment was damaging stones and markers in the Evergreen Cemetery.

Whitlock said the city will adopt parts of the ordinance, using what the municipal league provided as a guideline. Whitlock will write an ordinance for the council to consider at the special meeting scheduled for mid -month.

PROTEST

The council authorized Drumm to submit a protest to the Public Service Commission over a rate increase sought by Associated Natural Gas.

Associated Natural Gas is asking for an average of 17 per cent increase in its monthly rates.

The council discussed using the pooling commission of cities seeking to buy the gas company as a way to cut costs for intervening into the rate hike. Using the pooling, the Public Service Commission would give all the cities served by the company a chance to protest the rate hike. A decision on the extent of the city's involvement in the protest will be made later.

OTHER MATTERS

The council authorized changes in the Chamber of Commerce lease on a half acre of airport property. The changes were required by the Federal Aviation Administration before it would approve the lease. The Chamber is constructing an office building on the site.

The changes provide for renegotiation of the lease every five years and require ownership of the building revert to the city at the end of the 50 -year lease.

The council accepted a bid of $2,200 from Sonny Presley Chevrolet for a new pick -up truck for the humane officer. The price includes trade -in value of the old vehicle.

One other bid was received from Sikeston Motors. It was for $2,938, including trade -in.

The council authorized the rezoning of a row of lots between the north end of Davis Blvd, and the railroad tracks from commercial to single family. The lots are owned by adjacent property owners.

The council accepted the plot of the south half of Greenbrier Estates Subdivision to be located north of Green Meadows. The north half of the subdivision will be presented later.

Ziegenhorn asked Police Chief Leon Culp to do something about noisey motorcycles in the city, saying they are becoming a problem.

Whitlock said he has received several complaints recently about the noise.

The complaints came from "a good cross -section of the town", he said.

Ziegenhorn also added something should be done about a city wide observance of the nation's bi -centennial in 1976.

The commission accepted the resignations of Paul Baumbarger from the library board and Jim Pharris from the park board.

Nixon will tour 5 Mideast countries

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will tour five Middle East countries June 12-18 "to consolidate what has been achieved on the road to peace," the White House said today.

Simultaneous announcement were made by the White House and each of the five Middle East governments involved in Nixon's plans for the most extensive tour of the region ever undertaken by a U.S. president.

A White House spokesman said Nixon would depart Monday morning for Salzburg, Austria, where he will spend two nights before heading to the Middle East.

Nixon's Middle East itinerary: June 12-14, Egypt; June 1415, Saudi Arabia; June 15-16, Syria; June 16-17, Israel; and June 17-18, Jordan.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, who made the White House announcement, said the President will be accompanied by Mrs. Nixon and by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, whose successful negotiation of an Israeli-Syria disengagement agreement last week cleared the way for the journey.

Adminsitration sources said the trip is intended also to underscore adminstration belief that Nixon remains a world leader despite impeachment moves at home.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said that despite Watergate, Nixon has bipartisan congressional support on foreign policy.

Mansfield said in Helena, Mont., that he applauded Kissinger's successes in the Middle East:

Not since Franklin D. Roosevelt's journeys to Cairo in 1943 and 1945 has an American president visited the region.

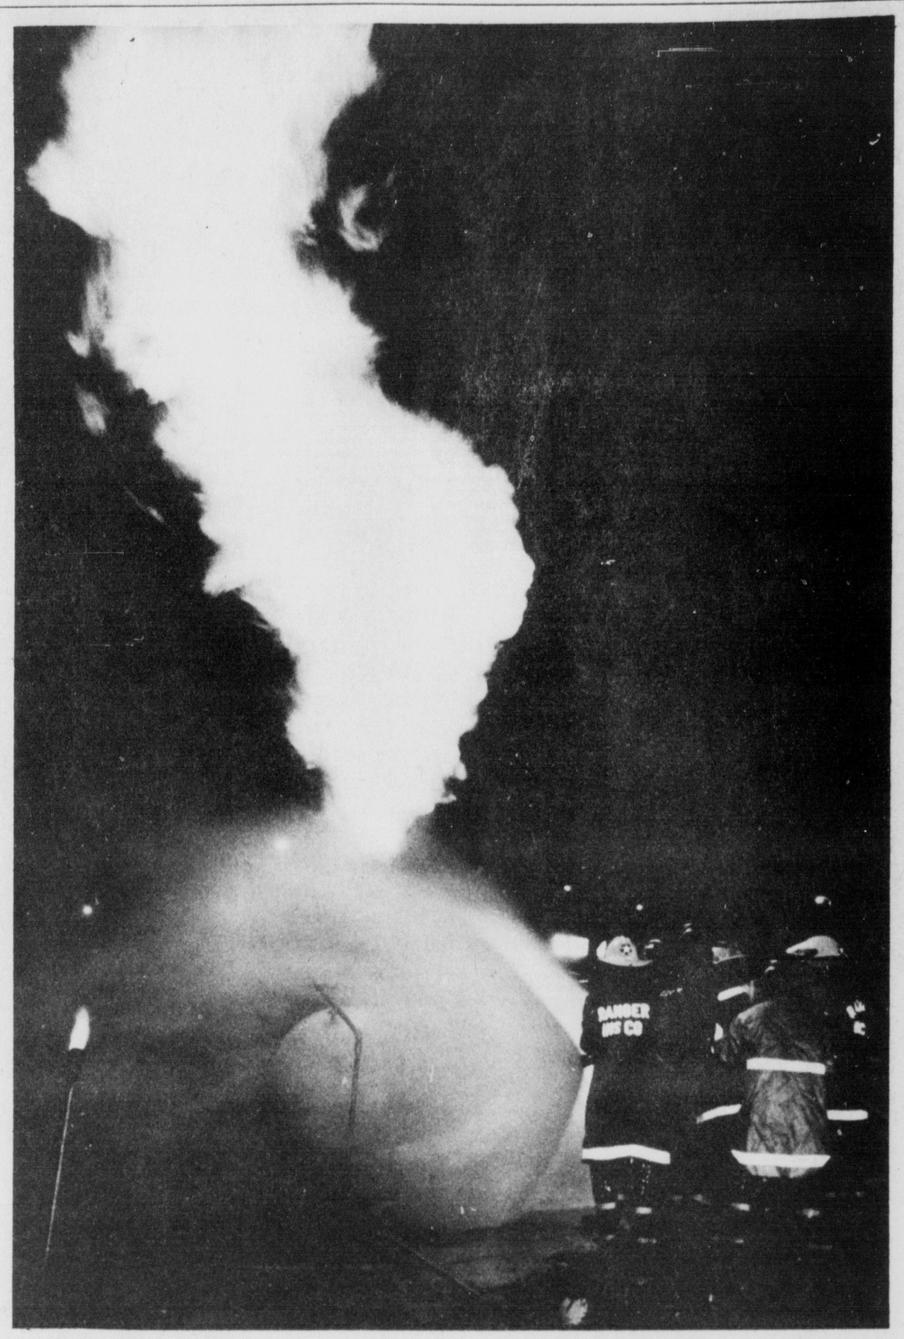
Kissinger, secretary of state as well as Nixon's national security adviser, paved the way for the trip when he negotiated a Syrian-Israeli disengagement agreement last week. He had negotiated a similar IsraeliEgyptian disengagement after a cease-fire in the October war.

A team of experts in such fields as communications and security already has arrived in the Middle East to make advance arrangements.

According to Cairo reports, a special meeting with Egyptian officials was arranged to discuss presidential security.

Cairo sources also said the Nile Hilton hotel was alerted to reserve eight floors, or some 320 rooms, for a three-day Nixon visit next week.

The trip timetable would give the President several days of rest in the United States before he departs for a week of summit talks in the Soviet Union beginning June 27.



Firemen take a lesson

Firefighters and fuel handlers from Sikeston, Chaffee, Bertrand, Miner, Benton and Poplar Bluff received instruction on how to extinguish propane fires in a demonstration on West Malone Avenue where the old sale barn was located. The demonstration and practice session, for firefighters, which drew many spectators was sponsored by the University of Missouri-Columbia Firemanship Training Program and Ranger Insurance Co.

Burning of solid waste must end on June 30

The City Council Monday night postponed decision on a rate increase for See -Mor Cable TV until a special meeting to be held in two weeks.

The council also heard a legal opinion from City Attorney Manuel Drumm concerning municipal contributions to non -profit organizations, and were reminded that the city must pass a solid waste disposal ordinance this month. The council asked Drumm to submit a letter of protest to the Public Service Commission concerning a rate increase sought by Associated Natural Gas.

CABLE TV

The council postponed a decision on a rate increase for See -mor Cable TV to give councilmen more time to study a report from the committee studying See -Mor's request.

See -Mor is requesting a rate increase of 50 cents a month. The council demanded information on the firm's financial status before making a decision.

The committee met Thursday night with four members of the See -Mor organization, which included Bill Haynes and Fred Travis of Topeka, Kan. Tom Gleason, manager of the local office, and an accountant from Topeka.

The city was represented by councilmen Arthur Ziegenhorn, John Houchin, Don Fulton, acting City Manager Bill Whitlock and an accountant Jim Booker.

Whitlock said today the city received the financial information on the organization at 4 p.m. Thursday and met with See -Mor representatives Thursday night.

Councilmen didn't feel they had enough time to make a decision, Whitlock said.

Se -Mor has cited inflation and unexpected expenses in moving lines as the reason for the rate increase request.

CHARITY

In a two -page written opinion, Drumm told councilmen he believed it was illegal for the city to donate money to non -profit organizations not controlled by the city.

The council asked for Drumm's opinion after several requests had been made for municipal donations to charitable organization..

No formal decision was made by the council on Drumm's opinion, but Whitlock said today he believed the council would follow Drumm's advice.

GARBAGE

The burning of solid waste in the city must end on June 30, Whitlock told the council. A state law forbidding burning of waste goes into effect July 1.

In addition the city must submit a solid waste disposal ordinance to the Division of Health in Jefferson City by June 20.

Whitlock said he has received a model ordinance from the Missouri Municipal League and is now reading it to see how it can be adapted to Sikeston.

Williams sentenced to 5 years

BENTON — Robert Lee Williams, 19, of 111 Thompson St., Sikeston, was sentenced to five years in custody of the State Department of Corrections after he pleaded guilty today to charges of manslaughter in Circuit Court before Judge Marshall Craig.

Perkins was shot once in the chest shortly before 11 p.m. while on the front porch of the Charlie Williams home, where young Williams, a relative, lived. The shooting reportedly followed an argument over a woman, according to police.

Police said Williams walked into the police station at 11:02 p.m. on the night of the killing and told officer Ed Speakman that he had just shot a man and wanted to turn himself over to police.

Williams then reached into his pants pocket and pulled out a .22- caliber

700 walk off jobs

CHAFFEE — About 450 union workers in Chaffee and 250 in Cape Girardeau have not reported to work at the Thorngate Ltd. plants since Monday and pickets are present at both plants. The plants are being affected by an industry- wide strike in the men's and boy's clothing field called Saturday by AFL-CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

C. Frank Adams, vice president of Thorngate, which is owned by Hart, Schafner and Marx Co., said the contract with the union expired June 1 and the only employes working today were management personnel.

According to Adams, the parent company will issue a statement later today.

Union officials from the St. Louis office are meeting today with officials at the Cape Girardeau office.

Pickets, who were at the scene in shifts of 10 or 12 at a time had blocked the three plant entrances except for a driveway to allow management personnel to enter.

Strikers said they had been warned against commenting on the situation.

Corps recommends drainage plan

MEMPHIS, TENN. --The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, in a report on the St. Johns Bayou and New Madrid Floodway, has recommended a $21 million plan for improvements.

The project, as recommended, would eliminate the almost annual flooding of existing properties in the study area and would provide needed facilities for development of fish and wildlife resources, according to the Corps of Engineers.

The report, authorized by resolutions of the Committee on Public Works of the U.S. Senate, concludes that there is a need for flood control and economic growth, programs and fish and wildlife development. If the project is authorized as recommended, it will provide for construction of a 2,000 cubic feet per second (cfs) pumping station in conjunction with 64.2 miles of channel improvements in the St. Johns Bayou area. It would also provide for channel clean -out on 5.8 miles of streams in Sikeston and construction of a 500 cgs pumping station in the lower New Madrid Floodway.

The report also recommends construction of a 500 cfs pumping station, an outlet structure with an opening of 200 square feet controlled by two power -operated lift gates at the outlet end, channel improvements on 11 miles of streams and construction of four miles of new channel in the St. James Bayou area of the New Madrid Floodway.

Also recommended is the purchase of approximately 2,500 acres in Tenmile Pond with appropriate water control structures for fish and wildlife management, use of easements to permit annual flooding on lowlands and access for fishing in borrow areas to mitigate fish and wildlife losses which are expected to occur as a result of the project.

Other plans which were evaluated consisted of various channel design in combination with pumping stations, channel improvement without pumping stations and pumping stations without channel improvement.

The total estimated cost of all work to be performed is $21,966.000 of which $17,869,000 would be federal funds and $4,097,000 non -federal.

The Mississippi River Commission is now reviewing the report. Written views on

LAWN WATERING ECONOMY

By the time you are seventy years old, if you're an average American, you will have used 26 million tons of water. Along with all our other energy problems, the diminishing quantity and quality of water is becoming an increasing concern

Because all the products with which they work depend on a proper use of water, the people of the American Association of Nurserymen have a great interest in providing practical instructions for its best application and preservation.

Most people are more likely to overwater their trees, plants, shrubs and grass than to provide insufficient moisture. The people of the nursery industry advocate thorough watering when it is needed, rather than frequent limited watering. This is much better for the plant, less costly, too — and saves water. The simplest way to tell when water is needed is to examine the soil at a depth of several inches. If it seems dry at that point, put on water. If it is even slightly moist, wait.

The people of the nursery industry make another point. Water from your property travels eventually, in one way or another, to our rivers and streams and carries along with it soil and sediment from your land to add to the water problem. You can prevent this from happening by planting grass or attractive groundcovers on any sloping area from which water will be running off.

If our water is an endangered resource, as the ecologists say, steps such as these taken by every individual will be a long- term investment.

HAMBURGERS IN HISTORY

Those who lament the destruction of so many fine old American landmarks and their replacement by such things as parking lots, gas stations and hamburger stands can take comfort in this thought: if you wait long enough, almost everything eventually becomes a landmark — even a hamburger stand.

As a case in point, Louis' Lunch, a tiny restaurant in New Haven, Conn., that claims to have invented the hamburger in 1900, was scheduled for demolition to make way for a 12- story medical complex.

Through a last- minute legal reprieve, the building will be moved to another site where, as an official city landmark, it will continue to serve coming generations of Americans.

While contrasting Shelby and Scott counties in the way they deal with criminal cases, it is only fair to add that last week in New Madrid county, which is part of the Bootheel and joins Scott county, eight criminal cases found the defendants receiving suspended sentences. Who collects most of Uncle Sam's taxes? About 86 per cent of Federal taxes are collected by and from business, says Tax Foundation.

Of the nearly $225 billion the Federal government received in taxes last year, more than $192 billion was handed over by business.

Business collected the bulk of individual income taxes for the government, withholding some $81 billion from paychecks for that Federal tax, and nearly $27 billion from paychecks as the employes' share of Social Security taxes.

Business paid an equal amount as its share of the Social Security tax and some $84 billion in corporate income, excise and other Federal taxes.

In addition, business must pay the costs of collecting the taxes for Uncle Sam. "Tax compliance costs" vary widely from the costs of maintaining a tax department in a large corporation to the time it takes someone to comply with the paper work in small operations. The exact cost is not known, says the Foundation, but it is in the millions.

Some taxes paid by business are passed along to customers in the form of higher prices, like any other business costs. But business taxes are also paid by stockholders in the form of lower dividends or by employes in the form of lower wages, or out of earnings that would otherwise go back into the business, as well as by consumers.

Below is a breakdown, by major Federal tax, of the $192 billion collected by or from business in 1973, based on data from the new Federal budget:

Corporation income tax, $36,152,000,000; Individual income withheld, 81,038,000,000; Social Security taxes, 53,687,000,000; unemployment tax, 1,417,000,000; railroad retirement, 1,189,000,000; customs (estimated), 2,869,000,000; excise taxes, 15,946,000,000; total: $192,298,000,000.

Very few of our public servants in the Federal government ever give the many businesses that collect their taxes at no cost a kind word. In fact, it has become such a burden in redtape and paperwork that any business operator will tell you that it is now a problem in the struggle to keep his head above the water.

WHAT'S A MISQUOTE BETWEEN PRESIDENTS?

In his State of the Union message, President Nixon quoted one of his predecessors Thomas Jefferson, as saying "the price of liberty is eternal vigilance". This, of course, nicely buttressed his point that "the price of peace is a strong defense," and no one is likely to contest that.

However, in the interest of historical accuracy, it should be pointed out that Mr. Jefferson was misquoted. In fact, Jefferson may not have said anything like that at all.

According to Bartlett's Familiar Quotations, John Philpot Curran (1750-1817), an Irish politician, said in 1790:

"The condition upon which God hath given liberty to man is eternal vigilance; which condition if he break, servitude is at once the consequence of his crime and the punishment of his guilty."

This, over the years, has been transmutted to the familiar, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" and it is this quotation, Bartlett's says, which has been "attributed" to Jefferson. Since Jefferson read widely, he may have seen and refined Curran's remark. In any event, Mr. Nixon got it wrong.

To wonder what Mr. Nixon would do to the following Jefferson quote, beloved of journalists, is arrant speculation:

"... were it left for me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

MAXIMUM SS TAX MAY TOP AVERAGE INCOME TAX BILL

The new maximum Social Security tax may be larger than the Federal income tax on more than half of some 80 million individual income tax returns to be filed this year, Tax Foundation, Inc. estimates.

The $772 maximum tax on employees (which must be matched by employers for a $1,544 total) exceeds the average of Federal income taxes paid on all returns with income up to $15,000 — 85 percent of returns in 1971, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

All workers with incomes over $10,800 will be affected, but only those earning $13,200 and over will feel the full bite of the latest increase in the OASDHI withholding tax, which became law January 3.

Some 29 million retired persons, rich, poor and in begween, however, will get an 11 percent increase in benefits during the year from the Social Security package Congress hastily wrapped up before Christmas.

The 22 percent increase in the tax for those earning $13,200 and above now imposes the 5.85 percent rate on all wages and salaries up to that limit. The self- employed must pay 7.8 percent or a new maximum of $1,029.

For most family breadwinners earning $13,200 this year, the new Social Security tax has suddenly gorown to half the size of the Federal income tax. After deductions and exemptions, the income tax takes about 11.7 percent of his paycheck, according to the Foundation.

For households with less than $13,20- income, and that's the boat most families are in, the Social Security tax is even more formidable.

A married couple with two children and $7,000 a year income, for example, will pay a Federal income tax of $406 and a Social Security tax of $409.50, the same as last year.

Nevertheless, the idea of raising Social Security benefits and taxes is apparently popular, observes Tax Foundation. (The Senate voted 65-0 in favor of the latest measure.)

With the latest increases, benefits will have risen 68.5 per cent for the January 1970-July 1, 1974 period. The Consumer Price Index is expected to be up about 28 percent in thee period.

TAXES AND THE IR$, A MORAL OBLIGATION

The respected Judge Leonard Hand has often been quoted on the subject of a taxpayer's obligation, specifically in reference to the federal income tax.

"Anyone may so arrange his affairs," he said, "that his taxes shall be as low as possible; he is not bound to choose that pattern which will best pay the Treasury; there is not even a patriotic duty to increase one's taxes ..."

This hardly means, however, that there is not a patriotic duty to pay one's fair share of taxes, or that this duty no longer holds when someone else may "so arrange his affairs" that he evades his fair share.

Yet on the basis of a flood of indignant letters from his constituents, Ohio Democratic Rep. Charles A. Vanik recently expressed fear that just such a taxpayer revolt may be brewing.

It is quite apparent, he warned, that "the voluntary income tax system established over a long period in the United States is now being threatened to the peril point by the moral indifference of the President to his own tax obligations and his position as national leader."

According to a lengthy article in the Wall Street Journal, the same worry is being entertained in the upper reaches of the Internal Revenue Service, not only because of widespread outrage at the President's tax returns for two recent years but because of a growing popular belief that the whole system is unfairly weighted in favor of the wealthy and the privileged.

It could be catastrophic for the nation if millions of Americans decided to withhold or to shade their taxes this year, either out of resentment at what a few are getting away with, or what it is thought they are getting away with, or to "get even" with the system."

Even if the IRS had the manpower to audit and to follow up every return, which it does not, the lost income could in the meantime seriously impair the operation of the government.

That would truly be a case of cutting off our national nose to spite the faces of those who have engaged in questionable behavior.

There is a better way of doing it. Keep those indignant cards and letters coming. Keep up the pressure on Congress to correct the unfair aspects of the system that exist. Demand that the Internal Revenue Service administer the laws evenly.

But make no compromise with ethics, or flirtation with illegality. Rather, let the rule be to render unto the IRS in the manner in which every American, from the President on down, should render for the good of all Americans.

LEFTOVER TAX DECISIONS MOVE TO FRONT BURNER

The past year was prologue for change in Federal tax laws and Congress in 1974 is expected to be more occupied with tax matters than in any year in recent memory, Tax Foundation, Inc. reports.

More and more members of Congress are displaying an eagerness for tax revision following a year that saw lengthy Congressional hearings and a virtual flood of legislative proposals, but little action, the research organization said.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee had optimistically scheduled House action on a tax bill by last June.

A full review of the 1973 efforts is given in a year- end Tax Foundation report on "Tax Developments in 1973."

The TF report sees hints of a "softening" of White House opposition to a tax increase and noted the possibility of the use of tax measures to promote energy conservation.

The Administration has already urged a tax increase on the "windfall profits.' of oil producers. The measure was placed at the top of the agenda for the immediate attention of the Ways and Means Committee when the next session opens this month.

All of the 10,000 U.S. oil producers would be subject to the "windfall profits" tax (to apply only to crude oil). The President tied the measure to a $1-a-barrel increase authorized in December. The increase would be subject to a tax of 9½ cents and the rate would rise with prices, reaching a maximum of 85 percent.

As for general tax revision, Tax Foundation expects now that it is going to come in stages, rather than as a package. Some of the first actions may concern provisions of income tax law that have come under recent attack as "inequitable," including possible changes in capital gains tax provisions.

The 1973 review noted that an element of uncertainty for tax matters this year is the future course of Federal spending.

Congressional staff experts estimated in December that the probable slowdown of the economy this year may bring a deficit in the Federal budget in the neighborhood of $20 billion for fiscal 1975. This compares to estimates of a deficit just under $3 billion for the fiscal 1974 year ending g July 1.

THEY STOLE MY STUFF

WASHINGTON — The paranoia in Washington gets worse and worse. Even I started feeling it, and I went to see a psychiatrist.

"What seems to be the problem?" he asked.

"Everyone is stealing my stuff," I said in anguish.

"Can you be more specific?" he asked.

"Well, you see a couple of years ago things were very dull in Washington and there wasn't much to write about except impoundment and the SALT talks. So I decided to do somethinng to jazz up the column. One day I was walking by the Watergate and I thought to myself, 'Wouldn't it be a gas if the Republicans bugged the headquarters of the Democratic Party?' "

"When did you think of this?"

"Sometime in June of 1972. I thought it would make a very funny column. At first I decided to have one man bug the Democrats, but then I got worried that some people might take me seriously so I decided to make it seven. It seemed more outrageous to have seven people get involved in something that stupid."

"No one in their right mind would have believed it," the psychiatrist agreed.

"Well, the column was a big hit, so I decided to follow it up with another funny column about the Committee to Re-Elect the President being involved in the break- in, including the former attorney general of the United States."

"I recall the piece. It was very amusing, particularly the part about all the money that was spent on the campaign," the psychiatrist said.

"Well, you can't imagine the success of this column. It was so different from anything coming out of Washington. So I did a follow- up column where I just let my imagination go wild. I traced the break- in to the White House. I invented several characters whom I called H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, John Dean and Charles Colson. I decided it would be very funny if one of the characters, John Dean, blew the whistle on the President of the United States."

"Weren't you afraid some people would believe you?" the psychiatrist asked.

"There is always the danger when you're writing satire that a few people will take you seriously. But since I was talking about the President, I was certain no one in his right mind would accept the tale as anything but pure fiction. Anyone with any brains would have to know the whole thing was a big put- on. Frankly I wanted to stop the gag right there, but I had so many requests for further installments that I had no choice but to continue the series.

"I was really stuck as to how to make the thing even more outlandish until one day I was fooling around with my daughter's tape machine and suddenly I got the wildest idea of all. I decided to write that the Presiden had taped (ital) all (unital) his conversations in the White House and that these tapes would implicate him in the Watergate scandal. I said with tongue in cheek, of course, that the evidence would lead to his impeachment.

"I remember that column," said the psychiatrist, "and frankly I thought you had gone too far."

"Well," I said defensively, "(ital) some(unital) people thought it was funny."

"All right then," the psychiatrist said. "What seems to be the problem?"

"Just this. Everyone is stealing my story. Like an idiot I never copyrighted it, and now every time you pick up a paper or turn on the TV they're using my characters and plot. I invented alll those people. THEY BELONG TO ME. WATERGATE NEVER HAPPENED EXCEPT IN MY MIND. DOCTOR, YOU HAVE TO HELP ME."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

Jack Anderson SAYS: Courting the Jury

WASHINGTON --White House aides have taken pains to remind members of Congress that they are sitting on the impeachment jury and, therefore, that it is improper for them to discuss the case against President Nixon.

It would seem to be even more improper, however, for Nixon as the defendant to court members of the jury. Yet he has taken key senators and representatives on dinner cruises down the Potomoc. He has made White House planes, limousines and other privileges available to them. He has pampered them with sudden attention.

The President is even tailoring his legislative program, at least in part, to appeal to the conservatives whose votes he is counting upon to keep him in office. The politics of impeachment, rather than the merits of the legislation, now seems to determine what bills he will support.

For example, the President has halted the construction of a cross -Florida barge canal to preserve the beauty of northern Florida's Oklawaha River. As recently as six weeks ago, the White House reassured Florida conservationists of the President's support.

But the promises were forgotten after a contingent of conservative congressmen called upon the White House to go ahead with the barge canal. The President hastily withdrew his opposition.

The same thing happened to a federal land -use bill, which the Presidnet had described as his "number one environmental priority" in his State of the Union message last January. Rep. Morris Udall, D -Ariz., working closely with the Interior Department, drew up a bill to accomplish the President's objective.

But conservatives were afraid the bill would allow the federal government, for the sake of the environment, to infringe on private ownership. House Republican leader John Rhodes and Rep. Sam Steiger, R -Ariz., arranged a private visit with the President and urged him to abandon the Udall bill.

Although the bill simply codified his own proposals, Nixon accepted the suggestions of the two powerful conservatives. Steiger helpfully provided a weakened substitute bill, which the President quickly endorsed.

This killed the Udall bill. It was a victim, snorted Udall, of "Watergate politics." Agreed a staff member privy to the backstage maneuvering: "This was clearly a case of Nixon trying to shore up his conservative support."

The President has also shifted his stand against other consumer, environmental and social programs, which the conservatives despise. And he has showered them with other White House blessings.

When Sen. John Sparkman, D -Ala., called from Paris to complain about a second -rate Air Force plance that had been provided to fly a congressional contingent home from Europe, the White House hastily dispatched Vice President Gerald Ford's plane across the Atlantic to pick up the Sparkman group.

Another time, the President gave Sparkman and Sen. James Allen, R -Ala., a lift home from Alabama and provided them with limousines at the airport. And Vice President Ford gave Sen. Hiram Fong, R -Hawaii, a ride to Hawaii last month.

Few members of Congress used to get in to see the President when the German shepherd dogs, H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, were guarding the door. Liberals are still excluded except on ceremonial occasions. For example, Sen. Walter Mondale, D -Minn., hasn't been inside the White House since the late President Lyndon Johnson occupied the place, and Sen. George McGovern, D -S.D., couldn't even get an official list of Cabinet members from the White House for an inquiring student.

But the doors have been thrown open to the conservatives, such as Sen. Strom Thurmond, R -S.C., Robert Dols, R -Kans., Pete V. Domenici, R -N. Mex., James Eastland, D- Miss., and Walter Huddleston, D -Ky., whose names are on a list of 34 to 39 hard -core conservatives whose vote the President needs to save himself from removal.

Sen. Wallace Bennett, R -Utah, and Russell Long, D -La., were invited to a private breakfast ostensibly to discuss trade with the President a couple of weeks ago. Earlier, the President played the piano at a birthday party for Bennett and Long was granted a 90 -minute audience with the President.

Sen. James Buckley, the New York conservative, had dinner at the White House 10 days before he asked Nixon to resign. He hasn't been invited back.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R -Alaska, admitted to us that his requests "were put on the back burner" in the Haldeman -Ehrlichman days. But this year "things have opened up," and White House aides "are more receptive to my inquiries."

A spokesman for conservative Sen. J. Bennett Johnson, D -La., put it even more candidly. "The White House is wooing Johnson. Nixon has been doing favors for Southern senators ... (for—anyone who's a swing vote on impeachment."

Footnote: A White House spokesman denied that the President's environmental shift had anything to do with impeachment politics. The President simply is trying to safeguard the environment and, at the same time, to provide an adequate energy supply, said the spokesman. He claimed that the President accepted the substitute land -use bill "because it was a better bill."

WORLD ANTI-COMMUNIST LEAGUE

The World Anti- Communist League recently held its seventh annual convention. The excellent speeches at this convention deserve far more attention than the U.S. press gave them.

Admiral John McCain Jr., former commander in chief of U.S. naval forces in the Pacific and Indian oceans, summarized the gains made by the Soviet Union in naval strength. Last October, for example, during the Arab war against Israel, the U.S. Mediterranean fleet consisted of 60 ships, while the Soviet Union had 90 warships, including some capable of launching 300- mile surface- to- surface missiles.

Congressman Richard Ichord summarized the gains realized by the communists in the new Soviet- U.S. policy of "detente." The Kremlin has profited from the wheat deal, from an Export- Import Bank loan of $500 million at 6 per cent interest, and from the favorable provisions of the SALT I treaty.

The Anti- Communist League bestowed three "Freedom Fighter" awards. One went to exiled Russian Nobel Prize- winner Alexander Solzhenitsyn. A second was awarded to Hungarian Cardinal Josef Mindszenty, who has uncompromisingly opposed communism in spite of persecution. The third was received by Balentyn Moroz of the Ukraine, an historian imprisoned for criticizing the Soviet regime. He has written to the people in the West: "Tell them only this: I am kept with the insane, they are creating hell for me. They are trying to drive me to the insanity of those with whom they locked me up. I cannot breathe." If government officials were as staunchly anti-communist as the members of the League, the Kremlin would be much less able to create this kind of hell for men who speak the truth. HLH

MOREHOUSE --The City Council Monday night passed an ordinance fixing the same property tax rate for 1974 as 1973. A tax of $1 on each $100 assessed valuation was approved for the general revenue fund and a $2 tax on each $100 assessed valuation was set for the sinking fund to pay outstanding bond obligations.

Following a lengthy discussion with Howard Adams, a local trash hauler, the council tabled action on signing a contract with Adams for city trash pickup until a special meeting scheduled for Monday.

Adams told the council he wanted a five -year contract to insure him that he could pay for a garbage truck he is trying to purchase. Mayor Marlin Swinger told Adams he would not want to obligate either the council or Adams for a five year period, but suggested a one or two -year contract.

In other action, Mayor Swinger said he would contact Ag -Air Inc. of Sikeston about mosquito spraying for the city.

The council agreed that large trucks should not be allowed on city streets, after a request from Sue Sweeny, who is self -employed, to allow a 40 foot tractor -trailer deliver household products to her home. Council members have received complaints that the truck has been tearing up streets and has knocked over posts.

The council hired P.D. Hutchason as a city employe to replace Bob Lutes, who is resigning.

City Clerk Jack Taylor was authorized to write letters to those residents who have tall grass or weeds on their property. A city ordinance states that grass not be over 10 inches tall. Taylor was also instructed to write letters to those residents who have not yet hooked up to the city sewer system, and who should have done so by Nov. 17, 1973.

Other ordinances were tabled due to the absence of Councilman Jim Kindle.

REALTOR

ITEMIZE HOUSE TAX DEDUCTIONS

One of the great financial benefits of home ownership versus rental is that you are immediately eligible to deduct a good- sized amount of money from your income tax. As a homeowner, you will generally find it to your advantage to itemize deductions rather than taking the standard deduction.

This is especiall true during the earlier years of home ownership. The mortgage interest and real property taxes on your personal residence, when added to toehr deductible items will usually be well in excess of any standard deduction you could claim.

Your home payment may consist of several parts; an amount placed in escrow to pay real estate taxes and fire insurance, FHA mortgage insurance premiums, and an amount applied to reduce the principal of the mortgage. Of these parts, only the interest and taxes are deductible — but that will prove to be a very sizable figure.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Mitchell is Past President of the Sikeston Board of Realtors and is currently serving as Vice- President of the Missouri Association of Realtors.) * * * * *

Blodgett fish fry set

BLODGETT — A fish fry has been scheduled for Saturday beginning at 6 p.m. in the Blodgett Community Building to raise funds to meet the medical costs of Mike Riley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Riley of Blodgett, who was burned May 14 when lightning struck a fishing party forced ashore along the Mississippi River three miles south of Commerce.

The meal will be free, but donations will be accepted.

The 16- year- old Riley youth was burned over most of his body and legs when the lightning knocked him onto a campfire. Mrs. Riley reported the youth returned home from the hospital Sunday, but will need further treatment.

Food for the fish fry is being donated by neighbors and friends of the family.

Miss Young and passengers, Beverly Kennedy, 17, of Campbell and Kimberly Kennedy, 12, of Malden Route Two received minor injuries and were taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

The television was valued at $90 and the radio at $50.

2 teens held

Police were holding two teenagers today for investigation of petit larceny after they were seen stealing bottles at midnight Monday from the E-Z Food Mart on Davis Blvd.

The two boys, one 18 years old, the other a juvenile, were arrested after police chased them into the Sunset Addition.

Bluff man taken into custody

Gary Lee Wiedeman of Poplar Bluff was taken into custody about 9:30 p.m. Monday after he was found lying by his automobile along Highway 60.

Police said they were called by J.D. Baker, 733 Vernon St., who told them Wiedeman was lying by his car along the road. Baker said he stopped to help and Wiedeman told him to leave him alone. Baker reportedly said Weideman acted strange.

The police reports did not say what was wrong with Wiedeman.

He was taken to the police station where a computer check showed him wanted by Sabine Parish, La., authorities and wanted for escape by Creve Coeur police.

Creve Coeur police arrived in Sikeston at 2:40 a.m. today and took Wiedeman into custody.

Psychiatric help useful to most, damaging to some

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a fool to write this letter. You'll never print it. Everyone knows you are in the hip pocket of the physicians and psychiatrists, but here goes anyway.

My particular subject is "Psychiatric Help." It's nothing but a jungle of quacks, incompetents, and counselors who are crazier than their patients. Under the guidance of two therapists, I experienced two divorces and have seen my daughter turn so trashy and foul- mouthed that when she left home, I was relieved.

According to my first psychiatrist I needed treatment for "a childish need to be dependent." The symptom: My husband spent (by actual count) 67 hours a week at home, including sleeping. The rest of the time he was out carousing around. My therapist told me I exhibited a pathological dependence by bothering my husband with such details as, "Should we have the children's tonsils removed?"

I was informed that I was creating a feeling of "mistrust" in my daughter (age 13) because I told her I was appalled by her sneaking out of the house after the family had gone to bed and wouldn't stand for it.

After several months of therapy (at $40 and $50 an hour) I was made to feel that my judgment was faulty and that I had created most of my own problems because of some "inadequacy in my personality."

When I asked my therapist, after four years, "How long will I have to be in treatment?" he replied, "How long did it take you to get sick?" I wondered if that meant that because I was 44 I could look forward to another 40 years of treatment.

I am not trying to make it appear there is nothing wrong with me. There is plenty wrong, which is why I got into this whole psychotherapy mess in the first place. The point is that finding a therapist with competence, compassion and common sense is so chancy that a person is probably just as well off to talk to himself -- and it would be a lot cheaper. Sign me -- Crazy As Ever But A Lot Smarter

Dear Smarter: Psychiatry has done beautifully for some, very little for others, and has been downright destructive for those who fell into the wrong hands. Of course there are some nutty psychiatrists. In fact, some of them selected the field in search of solutions to their own problems.

Your mistake was staying too long with therapists who weren't helping. Don't damn the entire profession because you drew a couple of losers. For many patients, therapy has been a life- saving experience, and I've received hundreds of letters to prove it.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband keeps nagging me to get a facelift. I am 47 and think I look pretty good. He talks incessantly about a woman in his office who had her face done and looks 20 years younger.

I don't want to spend the money, take the time off from work, or go through the pain. Yet, if it means so much to him, maybe I should. What do you say? -- L.S.

Dear L.S.: It's your face and your husband has no right to pressure you into a lift if you don't want one.

Furthermore, not all lifts come out peachy- keen. I've talked to many women who are sorry they messed around. And bear in mind, the results are not permanent. The best lifts last only five or six years at the most.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious -- lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654. Copyright 1974 Field Enterprises, Inc.

Disabled Veterans auxiliary leader visits area towns

POPLAR BLUFF --Mrs. Dorothy Van Hoy of Independence, commander of the National Disabled American Veteran's Auxiliary, and her husband Allen, visited Poplar Bluff DAV Auxiliary Unit 4 Friday to tour Twin Towers and visit with senior citizens who live there.

David Spence, city manager of Twin Towers, conducted a tour of the facility.

Local DAV chapters taking part in the tour were from Pocahontas, Ark., and West Plains, Cape Girardeau and Poplar Bluff.

Special guests at the luncheon which followed the tour were Steve Feian of the Chamber of Commerce and Martin Noel, director of volunteer service at the Veteran's Administration Hospital.

A tour of the VA hospital began the afternoon's activities for Mrs. Van Hoy. She was shown flower arrangements made and given to the fifth floor patients by DAV Auxiliary members from Cape Girardeau.

The Van Hoys then left for Cape Girardeau where DAV Auxiliary Unit 16 was host, taking the couple to Holiday Inn in Cape Girardeau to join the Perryville and St. Louis chapters for a tour of Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Van Hoy was then honored with an appreciation dinner for her work with the DAV organization.

Table decorations at Holiday Inn included the American and auxiliary flags and white flowers centering the red tablecloths.

Oma Eakins of Delta served as master of ceremonies for the dinner, and Bill Burke of St. Louis, National Service Officer for DAV, was guest speaker. He answered questions concerning different bills which had already been passed by Congress and more recent bills which are now before the Congress.

NIGHTBOOK
By William Kotzwinkle
(Equinox 18580/$2.45
160 pp.)

In homage to the goddess Aphrodite, a gathering of Greek women assemble at her temple, where they pass the evening in lively ribaldry, telling bawdy tales. Boccaccio's Decameron? No, the frame for William Kotzwinkle's new novel, NIGHTBOOK, an erotic fantasia set in both ancient and modern times, and now published by Avon Books as an original paperback novel in a large format Equinox edition. In a sort of double- entendre, the Athenian ladies' stories flash forward to the present day, where similar events, with similar bawdiness, take place.

Girls should have separate sports

CHICAGO (AP)—Girls should not play football, ice hockey or any other rough contact sports with boys, says the American Medical Association's committee on medical aspects of sports. There is no reason why healthy women should not participate with each other in vigorous contact sports, and there are many reasons why they should be encouraged to do so, the committee said.

But it added that participation on boys' teams "with its inordinate injury risk jeopardizes the health and safety of the female athlete and outweighs the benefits of such participation."

Its statement, published in the June 3 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, was approved by the women's and girls' divisions of the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

The AMA committee pointed out that girls are at a distinct disadvantage to boys in contact sports because they are less muscular and substantially lighter in weight.

Even if girls are matched according to weight, it added, they are still exposed to potentially greater injury, since they have a higher ratio of fat tissue than boys.

The committee noted that participation in girls' high school sports competition has increased 175 per cent over the past two years, and cited the health benefits of appropriate sports.

Girls also have asked to participate on boys' teams in noncontact sports, it said, adding that where no comparable girls' program exists or where separate athletic programs are not feasible, "this interim measure is a desirable solution for selected sports."

"However, it is in the long range interest of both male and female athletes that they have their own programs," the committee said.

(Avon 18176/$1.65

Thomas M. Disch, who has established himself in the front ranks of writers of science fiction with his previous books, among them Camp Concentration, The Genocides And Fun With Your New Head, turns to a new mode of fiction with his new novel 334, now published as an Avon original paperback.

334 is an address in a city; the literal time is the third decade of the 21st century, but behind the door at 334 time slips back and forth in a series of encounters which are, by turns, bizarre, erotic, humorous.

Hats are back in fashion

By Helen Hennessy
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK – (NEA) – The League of Instant Drama (L.I.D.) is a new feminist organization which states that the return of the hat is no longer a prediction but a fact.

Everywhere in the American and European collections hats were shown with costumes ranging from the most casual sports clothes, including pants, to elegant evening wear.

More hats are being seen in the pages of fashion magazines, newspapers and on television. They are creating new fashion excitement and the great revival of femininity that women have been waiting for.

Hats have gone to the heads of the young in a big way. They wear them with jeans, with pantsuits with flared skirts. They wear them to rock festivals, to the flicks, on bikes, on hikes.

"Mame," the hattiest movie of the year, starring Lucille Ball, Robert Preston and Beatrice Arthur. Spanning a 20-year period from 1928 to 1948 the fabulous hats from the movie have already inspired a fashion trend by leading designers for 1974.

DR LAWRENCE E. LAMB

How often do cells reproduce?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read in an article in a newspaper that every cell in a person's body reproduces itself every seven to eight years. Do you have any way of checking on this? If so, will you please give me any information you have about it?

DEAR READER — That is another one of those half-truths that is constantly repeated. The truth is some cells never reproduce at all. Some cells reproduce when they are needed to replace a damaged cell and still others reproduce constantly.

A good example of continuous reproduction is the case of the red blood cells. Did you know that your body manufactures about three-million new red blood cells every second? It also destroys red cells at that rate. An average red blood cell only lasts about 120 days. So, normally you always have a lot of fairly young red blood cells in your body, not "tired blood."

The lining of the small intestine is completely replaced every three days. The old cells, incidentally, are digested and the protein in these cells used just like the protein in your food. Our body is a great recycling machine far ahead of our primitive ideas about recycling in our own environment. Even the iron-containing hemoglobin in those destroyed red blood cells is saved and used again to form new blood cells.

The cells of the skin are constantly being shed and replaced. So are the hair fibers. These must be rebuilt with new proteins.

The liver is a good example of an organ that can grow new cells if part of it is removed. If a lot of scarring occurs (cirrhosis) it may not be able to do so, but ordinary injury or surgical excision of part of the liver stimulates it to form new liver cells.

By contrast, muscles, vessels, tendons and brain cells cannot be replaced at all or at best only poorly. You can increase the size of muscle fibers by training, but you won't increase the number of cells or replace old ones.

We are stuck with the number of brain cells we have, and as we get older the number of those in the cortex or thinking portion are fewer in number. Fortunately, we have a lot more than we usually need. But, it can become important as you get older. Brain cells damaged by excess use of alcohol on a long-term basis cannot be replaced.

There is much new interesting work, though, that indicates that living brain cells can learn to take over new functions. Thus, if a person loses the cells that control an arm there is the possibility that other cells can be trained to take over these functions. The possibility of training other brain cells for new tasks opens a wide possibility for helping people with problems such as strokes at some time in the future.

Many cells, such as brain cells, can undergo chemical changes, even if the cell is not replaced. That is, the proteins, amino acids and various minerals in the cell may be exchanged for different proteins and minerals during the cell's life. These changes may be related to cell repair or renewal, even if the cells are not actually replaced. So, you have all variations rather than a seven-or-eight-year cyclical replacement.

What's the law?

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

In pursuing the path to wealth and riches, Rupert encountered more obstacles than could be found on an infiltration course. What's more, he insisted that they were purposely placed there by none other than Satan himself.

Consequently, being flat busted, Rupert filed an application in the federal court as a poor person to sue Satan for his having violated Rupert's civil rights.

"In addition to his willfully causing my financial downfall," insisted Rupert in court, "he's threatened me and caused me all kinds of miseries. He's been the unconstitutional bane of my existence."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Rupert to sue Satan for violation of his civil rights?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while the official records fail to show that Satan has ever appeared in a case as a defendant, there is an unofficial account of his having sued a New Hampshire man as plaintiff to foreclose a mortgage.

In that case, noted the judge, the defense was raised that Satan was a foreign prince with no standing to sue in an American court. The defense, however, was overcome by overwhelming evidence to the contrary.

Nevertheless, concluded the judge, there is no allegation made by Rupert that Satan is a resident of this particular judicial district or that he can be served in this particular judicial district.

Consequently, concluded the judge, it is highly questionable whether Rupert can obtain personal jurisdiction over Satan in this judicial district and, therefore, his application must be denied.

DELICIOUS POSSIBILITY

MORRSIVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Can snacking hold more appeal for college girls these days than streaking? Apparently.

The delicious thought of digging into a box of cereal recently overcame the urge of a group of students at the state university here to witness a streaking incident right under their dormitory windows.

As the streaking was about to begin, one hungry coed suddenly found a box of a natural-type cereal and headed back to her room — by herself, she thought. She was immediately pursued by a dozen other girls who abandoned the streakers for a chance to snack on the cereal instead.

She was so amazed that she wrote a letter to Quaker Oats, producer of the cereal, to tell them about it.

Colson testimony would be welcomed

WASHINGTON (AP) White House lawyer James St. Clair said today he would welcome testimony by former White House counsel Charles W. Colson in the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

"In my view it would be highly supportive of the President," St. Clair told newsmen as he entered the committee room for the start of another week of closed-door hearings.

The committee planned a look into White House dealings with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. today and then will take up political contributions by the dairy industry late in the week.

Colson played a leading role in White House dealings with ITT and dairy groups, as well as activities of the White House plumbers.

Colson pleaded guilty to a single count of obstruction of justice Monday, saying he wants "to tell everything I know."

Colson's conversations with Nixon on a number of subjects involved in the committee inquiry are among tapes the committee has subpoenaed and Nixon has refused to provide.

Colson pleaded guilty Monday to a single count of obstructing justice in the trial of Daniel Ellsberg, accused of leaking the Pentagon papers. Under an arrangement with special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, Colson will not be prosecuted on three other charges in the Ellsberg case and in the Watergate cover-up.

Colson said he agreed to the arrangement so he would be free "to tell everything I know about the Watergate and Watergate-related matters."

The 42-year-old lawyer will be sentenced June 21 on a charge that he carried out a plan to "defame and destroy the public image and credibility" of Ellsberg. A felony, it carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

His arrangement with Jaworski is designed to make him available as a prosecution witness in the various trials the special prosecutor is preparing. But William Merrill, assistant special prosecutor, said Colson would be free to testify before the Judiciary Committee if he wants to.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., who hopes to speed up the inquiry by limiting the number of witnesses, would not comment about the possibility that Colson would be called, No decision will be made on witnesses, he said, until all documentary evidence has been presented in about three weeks.

Other committee members, however, said they hoped Colson would be called.

Earlier Monday, Robert McClory of Illinois became the first Republican on the commitee to speak in favor of finding Nixon in contempt of Congress, if that would result in getting the tapes the committee has subpoenaed.

The Senate Watergate Committee also may call Colson.

His importance as a potential witness in the impeachment inquiry is underscored in a Judiciary Committee staff memorandum to members justifying a request for various taped presidential conversations.

It lists nine telephone calls and meetings between Nixon and Colson bearing on the Watergate break-in, payments to keep the convicted burglars quiet and an alleged offer of executive clemency to one of them.

In the ITT antitrust settlement, which became involved in the Senate confirmation hearings of Richard Kleindienst as attorney general, Colson urged that the nomination be withdrawn.

"His reason included the possibility that documents would be revealed suggesting that the President was involved in the ITT situation ... " the memorandum says.

In 1970, it says, Colson served as the White House contact for the Associated Milk Producers Inc. and received its pledge for a $2 million contribution to Nixon's re-election campaign.

The committee is investigating whether milk price support increases were approved in return for the contributions.

In other Watergate-related developments:

—U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell accepted a White House suggestion to postpone a confrontation over evidence in the Ellsberg break-in case. However, Gesell repeated that final refusal by the White House to turn over documents needed by the defense could result in dismissal of the charges.

—The chairman of the nation's governors said the states are the ones responding to the problems of the Watergate era. "In a number of current issues, including government ethics, campaign finance reform, consumer protection and no-fault insurance, the record of many of the states has been one of decisive action in contrast to that of the national government," said Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington.

—A White House spokesman said Nixon discussed the possibility of making Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen director of the FBI, but no offer was ever made. The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin has reported that Petersen told a grand jury that Nixon asked him about the FBI job while Petersen was heading the Justice Department's Watergate investigation.

—The United Auto Workers' international convention nearly unanimously called for Nixon's impeachment.

Lessons for Young Bicyclists to Learn

Chief Leon P. Culp
Sikeston Police Department

Lesson No. 5 - City Riding Safety

In this lesson we will talk about riding your bike safely on the city streets. A later lesson will cover safe riding in the country.

Riding a bike in the city can be more dangerous than riding in the country because automobile traffic changes direction more frequently and quickly in the city. Also, there are so many more things that auto drivers must do in city traffic such as, stop quickly, back up, speed up, slow down, change lanes, etc. So, to be a safe bicyclist you must naturally be very alert while riding in city traffic.

Here are some rules you should learn and practice whenever you are going to ride on city streets:

1. Avoid riding on very busy streets. NEVER ride on an expressway or freeway.
2. Always be sure you have a good grip on your handle bars with BOTH hands.
3. Always ride on the right side of the street, close to the curb, but watch for parked cars or people opening their car doors.
4. When riding with other bicyclists, always ride in SINGLE FILE. Allow a full bike's length between your bike and the one ahead of you.
5. Always ride YOUR bike alone. Never carry a passenger or large bundles. This throws you off balance and blocks your vision.
6. STOP, look both directions, before entering the street from a sidewalk, driveway or alley. Remember, cars move much faster than bikes!
7. Obey all traffic signals, signs you see. They are for YOU as well as for all others on the streets!
8. NEVER hold onto any moving truck, car, motorcycle, or other vehicles, allowing it to pull you along. Many bicyclists have been hurt badly, some even killed, in this manner.
9. Avoid riding your bike after dark. But, if you must be sure you have proper lights, (see Lesson No. 1), and wear light colored clothing.
10. When approaching intersections that have no stop signs, or other traffic signals, be prepared to put on the brakes at a moment's notice.
11. When crossing streets with heavy traffic, stop, get off your bike, and walk it across the intersection at a crosswalk.
12. Do not ride your bicycle on the sidewalk at any time.
13. Let people crossing the street go first. Always slow down, or stop, if necessary, to let them finish crossing.
14. Never "show off" while riding on the street. If you want to do "trick riding" or play games on your bike with friends, find an empty lot or area off the street entirely.
15. NEVER follow close to a slow moving car or truck, or try to race with them. Chances are the driver would not see you and if he had to stop in a hurry you might hit the back of his vehicle and could be hurt badly.
16. When leaving the school grounds on your bike, stop and look both ways and enter traffic very carefully. The sudden rush of bicycles leaving a school grounds, going in various directions into traffic is extremely dangerous!

Ford says Mideast peace is new era in world history

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford said today that with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East peace achievements "a new era in world history, an era of negotiation and reconciliation, was 'made in U.S.A'."

Asserting that history will credit President Nixon's foreign policy initiatives, Ford said Watergate has focused attention away from what he called the Nixon administration's creative relationship with the rest of the world."

Ford's remarks were prepared for delivery to a breakfast meeting of the American Apparel Manufacturers Association in conjunction with its TEXPO '74, an American fashion textiles exposition.

"Secretary Kissinger's most recent mission was facilitated by the new climate that exists worldwide," Ford said. "This is the climate that ensued from the President's historic initiatives in visiting Moscow and Peking and in understandings reached there and in subsequent exchanges.

"I have said before—and I repeat today—that President Nixon has innovated and carried forward a bold and courageous foreign policy that history will credit in due perspective."

He said it was Nixon who chose and supported Kissinger "and gave full confidence and scope" to the negotiations.

Ford said Kissinger's skill was shown in narrowing the distance between the positions taken by Israel and Syria without imposing a settlement.

The vice president said the United States will continue to help Israel maintain an arms balance with her Arab neighbors, and said the Soviet Union is continuing to arm the Arabs.

Describing the advent of an important new era of negotiation and reconciliation, Ford said the world's people must live together without any longer being able to consider war as just another form of foreign policy.

"Our enemies are not other nations or peoples different from ourselves," Ford said. "Our enemies are hunger, disease, poverty, ignorance, hopelessness, fear and hatred.

P'ville council approves metal building purchase

PORTAGEVILLE -- The City Council Monday night approved the purchase of a metal frame building from Mitchell Engineering Co. of Rocky Mount, N.C. for the amount of $6,315 for an ambulance garage. The building will be erected behind the city hall.

Delivery date is expected by July 1. Ralph Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau was awarded a contract to erect the building for $2,597. In addition to the building and erection, a concrete floor will be installed by the city.

Girardeau Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau was awarded a contract for resurfacing and improvements to a number of streets. The cost will average about $2.25 per running foot. The city will pay 25 cents per foot and property owners will pay the balance of the cost.

The council hired Burton McDaniel as city dog catcher.

Union Electric increase compromise submitted

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.(AP)--A compromise that would allow a $37 million Union Electric rate increase was submitted to the Missouri Public Service Commission Monday after an agreement was reached between utility company officials and opposing consumer and business groups.

The compromise, subject to approval by the PSC would mean an increase of 14.4 per cent for residences, 15.1 per cent for small businesses and industry, and 12.7 per cent for large commercial and industrial users.

The agreement came just before public hearings were to begin on an earlier Union Electric request for a $57.8 million hike.

Judiciary members accepted donations from dairymen

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 16 members of the House Judiciary Committee accepted political donations ranging from $100 to $11,000 from the same three dairy farmer cooperatives the panel is investigating as part of its impeachment probe.

Two members, Democrat Charles B. Rangel of New York and Republican Thomas F. Railsback of Illinois, decided to return the money after being questioned about it by The Associated Press.

Rangel got $100 from Associated Milk Producers, Inc. Committee received $32,650 after April 7, 1972, $24,050 of it to nine Democrats, $8,600 to seven Republicans. Records of congressional donations before that date are no longer available for public view.

Rep. Hungate summed up what many of his colleagues said:

"If Mr. Nixon received and reported a legitimate campaign donation, as I did, he's in no trouble. If he sought and received a bribe, as I did not, he is in deep trouble."

Rangel got $100 from Associated Milk Producers, Inc. last March, and sent it back Monday with a letter saying it would be improper for him to accept it.

An aide to Railsback said he would give back $500 that he received from the same group in 1972 "because he wants to be free of any conflict of interest."

The others, including committee chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., who got $4,100, said they saw no conflict.

The biggest recorded donation went to Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, a first-term Democrat from Iowa, who got $11,000.

According to public records going back to April 7, 1972, these committee members were given money by one or more of the co-ops, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., Dairymen, Inc., and Mid-America Dairymen, Inc.:

M. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., $1,500; William S. Cohen, R-Maine, $3,000; John Conyers Jr., D-Mich. $100; David W. Dennis, R-Ind., $500; Walter Flowers, D-Ala., $1,000; Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis., $100; William L. Hungate, D-Mo., $2,300; Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., $2,650; Trent Lott, R-Miss., $2,500; Robert McClory, R-Ill., $500; Mezvinsky, $11,000; Wayne Owens, D-Utah, $2,600; Railsback, $500; Rangel, $100; Rodino, $4,100 and Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., $200.

Kastenmeier, Hungate and Flowers were among sponsors of legislation to raise the federal support price for milk in 1971. The White House has cited this legislation, sponsored eventually by 121 House members, as a key reason President Nixon overruled the Agriculture Department and raised milk price supports in March 1971.

The Judiciary Committee is scheduled to begin soon a formal inquiry into allegations that Nixon raised prices because of a promise of $2 million in political donations from the dairy cooperatives. The White House has said Nixon knew about the promise of money but wasn't influenced by it.

Lutheran board advises against divisive groups

ST. LOUIS (AP)--The board of directors of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod issued a warning Monday to church members against groups that "polarize or divide the synod."

In a four-page position paper, the synod directors specifically singled out Evangelical Lutherans in Mission (ELIM) as being divisive within the church.

ELIM has philosophically and financially supported dissident students who left Concordia Seminary in Clayton, Mo., last winter following the dismissal of Concordia President the Rev. Dr. John Tietjen and formed their own "seminary-in-exile."

The church board said ELIM's action made it "substantially a church within a church," a violation of the synod's constitution. The position statement cited a synodical resolution that said congregations and individuals had no right under the constitution to perform duties that rightfully belong only to appointed or elected synod officials.

The position paper was issued following a meeting between the synod directors and members of ELIM and is being sent to all congregational chairmen and pastors.

CHICAGO (AP) — A new method for making paper from corn starch was recently reported in Prairie Farmer, one of the nation's leading rural magazines.

The magazine says chemists at the USDA Northern Regional laboratory in Peoria Ill., have developed the corn starch derivative as a stable ready-to-use liquid. Paper made from this particular type of starch can be recycled, thus conserving timber and reducing costs.

Five accident patients were treated Monday in the emergency room of Missouri -- Delta Community Hospital.

Treated were: Gerald Ingram, 46, Sikeston, fractured rib in car accident; Thomas L. South, 2, Essex, caught and scratched ankle on bike.

Donna M. Creekpaum, 14, Sikeston, cut right leg on piece of glass; Nathaniel Kent, 8, Charleston, dislocated left thumb playing basketball; and Darrell W. Jackson, 15, Sikeston, cut forehead on rock.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — For the fourth straight year, Joe Paterno of Penn State ranks as the winningest major college football coach in the nation.

In eight years his Nittany Lions have won 73 games, lost 13 and tied one for an .848 winning percentage.

Meat price compromise sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department hopes to gain a compromise among meat packers and retail food chains that could result in lower meat prices for consumers, higher prices for farmers or both.

Don Paarlberg, director of economics for USDA, said today he hopes representatives of the meat-supply pipeline can be brought together in a meeting soon to see if something can be done about current price margins charged by packers and retailers.

"Nothing is set," Paarlberg told a reporter, "but we hope something can be done in the very near future."

Objectives of such a meeting would be to see if more beef and other meat could be moved through consumer channels and relieve an oversupply which currently has helped depress farm prices.

Paarlberg said he could not recall USDA attempting to hold such a meeting among all sectors of the meat industry, from farmer to retailer, although the Cost of Living Council had brought representatives together in the past.

The plan was first disclosed Monday at a meeting between Paarlberg and a group of Midwest cattle producers who complained about low prices and the wide margins middlemen are charging between farmers and consumers.

Paarlberg said the cattle producers, in his view, had a "justifiable complant" and that farm-to-retail margins could be reduced by lowering the store price of meat or by raising prices farmers get for cattle.

Although consumers have seen some lower meat prices in recent weeks, USDA experts say middlemen have not passed along most of the reduction in prices that livestock producers have absorbed for many months.

At a White House briefing Monday, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said many people are not aware that food prices have stopped rising, and, in the case of meat, have come down from peaks last winter.

In fact, Butz said, beef prices have dropped "rather substantially" this spring. Asked if he thought retail food prices generally, which showed a decline in April, would begin rising again, Butz said he did not, "unless labor costs run it up."

Prices of choice slaughter cattle in the midwest this week were around $38 per 100 pounds live weight, compared with a high of $49.75 last January. The record was $56.25 last August.

Meantime, corn and other feed costs have held relatively high and have resulted in cattle feeders losing money when they sell stock at depressed market prices.

Astaire wants 'to make good'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"The main thing I want to do is make good. The only way I can be satisfied is if I'm not letting anyone down — either the audience, or my fellow performers, or myself."

The words may sound like those of a young star of a new television series, but they came from Fred Astaire, who is marking his 68th year in show business at the age of 75. He is back at work, not dancing this time out, but conveying the Astaire grace to the role of a con man in the all-star "The Towering Inferno."

The eyes have a slight glisten, and the face is more sharply angled, but Astaire remains impeccably slim and thoroughly ageless.

Even though he wasn't working, he came to 20th CenturyFox studio for an interview and to witness the first scene between Paul Newman and Steve McQueen. Astaire was eager to watch McQueen's prank of wearing three-inch platform shoes so he would tower over Newman.

"I don't call myself an actor," said Astaire with his customary modesty, "but I've had some practice at it. I did a few things as a kid; if you'd read my autobiography, you'd know that I played Roxanne to my sister Adele's Cyrano de Bergerac."

He recalled some of his nonmusicials: "Notorious Landlady," "On The Beach," "Midas Run" plus his television work in "It Takes a Thief," "The Over the Hill Gang" and his Wlcoa series — "I took it so I could get training in straight roles."

Will he dance again? "Not in a full-scale musical film nor the kind of TV special that used to win him a cartload of Emmies.

"That's not for Mr. 75-year-old Astaire," he said emphatically. "I did the last special when I was 70 or so, and I had to run a four-minute mile. It's a helluva strenuous life, the way I do a show."

Kidnapped executive released unharmed

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — "I put myself in the hands of the Lord, and I was never afraid," Tulsa businessman Walter H. Helmerich said after his eight-hour kidnaping ended with payment of a ransom unofficially reported at $700,000.

The FBI said no arrests have been made.

Helmerich, 51, millionaire president of Helmerich and Payne, Inc., a worldwide oil drilling company, and director in numerous other firms, was released unharmed Monday by what he called a "very thoughtful" kidnaper.

A lone man stopped Helmerich's car while he was on his way to work. He said it was his normal route to the office and the kidnaper evidently knew it.

Helmerich said he was blindfolded, bound and forced to ride on the floor of a car until his release near a tank farm at Jenks, a small town five miles south of Tulsa. Helmerich said the abductor stopped frequently, apparently making telephone calls.

The FBI said a ransom demand sent to the Utica National Bank, partly owned by Helmerich family members, was met by Walter H. Helmerich Jr., father of the victim.

SAMANTHA BERRY

Former Canalou woman pursues nursing career

HANFORD, CALIF.-- Samantha Berry of Lemoore, Calif., daughter of Mrs. Edna Harr of Canalou, Mo. and the late V.E. Harr waited until her family was raised to pursue an education and vocation.

Mrs. Berry graduated May 23 from the Licensed Vocational Nursing students program in Hanford, Calif.

She was raised in Canalou, and said she didn't even complete the eighth grade. She held numerous jobs while living in the Los Angeles area and began her studies when she and her husband, Hoyt, moved to the Lemoore area.

She attended adult night school and received her high school diploma in 1972. She then enrolled in the LVN program after a semester at Fressno City College in Fresno.

"This is the first opportunity I've had to fulfill what I've always wanted to do," she says, "I've always wanted to be a nurse and this program has meant a lot to me and made a lot of things possible."

Mrs. Berry will continue working at Hanford Community Hospital where she had been working throughout the program. In July she will take her state LVN examination in Los Angeles. Her new plans are to enroll in a pharmacology class at the College of the Sequoias in Central California in the fall. She still has her sights on being a registered nurse.

Legislation urged restoring Vets Day to Nov. 11

WASHINGTON (AP) Veterans organizations Monday urged legislation to restore November 11 as the official date for the observance of Veterans Day.

In 1968 Congress passed a bill, effective three years later, providing for observance of the Veterans Day holiday on the fourth Monday in October.

The bill also set Mondays for Memorial Day, Columbus Day and Washington's birthday to be observed as federal holidays. This, combined with Labor Day, assured five three-day holiday weekends each year.

Although the legislation applied only to federal employes and the District of Columbia, most states passed measures conforming with the federal law.

Herald E. Stringer, testifying for the American Legion before a Senate judiciary subcommittee, said his group believes "the historical significance of Veterans Day far outweights the convenience of three-day weekends."

"This day, rich in historic and patriotic meaning for Americans, should not be sacrificed to the commercialism of holiday bargain sales or to the production of economic benefit to certain segments of industry," he said.

Spokesmen for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, and the Noncommissioned Officers Association of the United States also urged that November 11 be redesignated as Veterans Day.

President Nixon has asked Congress to do this, and numerous bills have been introduced in the Senate and House to return to the traditional date for the Veterans Day holiday.

Among Senate sponsors of such legislation who testified at the subcommittee hearing were Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., James B. Allen, D-Ala., and Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb.

Two states, Mississippi and Oklahoma, never changed their laws to conform with the federal act

'Rising prices cause schools financial trouble'

COLUMBIA — "Missouri school districts are experiencing serious financial problems as a result of increasing costs and inelastic revenue sources" stated Tom Penn of Columbia, executive secretary of The Missouri State Teachers Association, as he released information from the Association's Committee on Sources of School Revenue which met recently in Columbia.

"The failure of the state to provide a higher level of state support for schools does not avoid a tax increase but transfers the need for it to the school district level" Penn noted. "There the local citizens must choose between higher property tax and deteriorating schools. In many school districts which now have a current levy of $3.75 or more those who wish to maintain schools are requested to win by a two to one majority."

Schools have not been able to avoid the continuing inflationary spiral but are seriously affected by it, Penn said. The major expenditure of schools is for personnel. During a period in which the consumer price index has advanced more than 10 per cent in a year employes face real hardships unless adequate salary adjustments can be made. Few school districts are able to adjust salaries to meet the increase in the cost of living. Many costs of schools such as those related to transportation and heating as well as the cost of all paper products have increased even more than living costs.

Schools have been asked or required to assume greater responsibility in the costly areas of vocational eduction and the education of the handicapped. While additional state funds are provided for these programs there are very substantial additional costs that must be borne locally. The additional local costs for these new programs must come from the districts' locally produced revenue which has not increased as a result of new programs.

House Bill 474 enacted in 1973, requiring an extension of education to all handicapped pupils, to be implemented this year is a prime example of the required extension of school programs. The revised school classification standards, while designed to provide better education, will also be more expensive.

The higher federal minimum wage law and the required coverage of all school employes by workmen's compensation will also add to the costs of school districts.

While significant progress in financing education in Missouri was made during the period from 1969 to 1972 when the state had a commitment to increase state school funds by $35 million per year these gains have been greatly eroded by the inflation of recent years. Fifty- fifty state and local financing of the current operation of schools, an objective of the 1969 revision of the school foundation program, has not been achieved. Missouri's expenditures for teachers' salaries and the average expenditure per pupil in Missouri remain below Missouri's ability to finance education as indicated byMissouri's per capita income and other measures of financial ability.

The increased costs of education must be met from local, state, and federal funds.

Federal funds which have been decreasing are restricted to the support of special programs such as for the disadvantaged and vocational education.

State funds are distributed under the school foundation program on an equalization formula and for other special purposes. Funds for the school foundation program were increased $27.7 million for the 1974-75 school year. However, when the increase is reduced by the $12 million expected to be needed to finance the expanded special education program, the per cent of increase in the school foundation program is about four per cent. It is evident that this does not match increasing costs on the state portion of school revenue.

Local revenue still constitutes more than 50 percent of the operating funds of school districts, with the state supplying 42 percent and the federal eight per cent.

In fiscal years 1972 and 1973 locally produced funds for the operating of schools increased about four per cent per year. This was due chiefly to the increase in assessed valuation rather than higher school levies.

More school districts found it necessary to submit higher tax levies to the voters for 1974-75 with over 160 school districts including Kansas City and St. Louis submitting levies. Seventy- two per cent of the higher proposals voted on prior to April 26, were approved according to a survey by the State Department of Education.

In securing additional local funds for the operation of schools the most serious problem exists in 85 school districts which now have current operating levies of $3.75 or higher. Any increase in the local levies in these districts must, under the Missouri Constitution, be approved by a two- thirds majority vote. Forty- one percent of Missouri's pupils live in these districts.

Since it is public policy as expressed in Missouri's Constitution to make adequate financing of public education difficult at the local level it would seem that a higher than average level of funding should be provided by the state. A continuing significant increase in state funds should be provided for schools. The constitution provides that the general assembly shall establish and maintain free public schools.

Additional problems in school finance may be anticipated in the 1975- 76 school year due to the loss of funds from the general intangible tax unless corrected by legislation by the next general assembly. The general intangible tax is providing about $20 million to local political subdivisions of which school districts receive $12 or $13 million. Since intangible tax receipts are deductible under the school foundation program the effect of the loss of this revenue is the same as a reduction of state appropriation to schools of that amount. Also while the law repealing the property tax on household goods provides for the replacement of the $14 million lost by local political subdivisions question has been raised on the implementations of the provision for replacement. School districts receive the greatest part of the local property tax and will have the greatest loss if the revenue is not replaced.

With regard to meeting the financial needs of the schools the fiscal capacity of the state is not nearly so limited as local school districts which are restricted to the property tax. Missouri's state taxes are low in relation to other states. Missouri ranked 43rd in per capita state taxes in fiscal 1973 and 45th in state taxes as a percent of income. If Missouri had collected the average per capita state tax in the nation in fiscal 1973 Missouri's state revenue would have been $355 million greater.

Gardner says governors provide state leadership

SEATTLE (AP) — A leading advocate of political reform told the nation's governors today that amidst the Watergate scandals "the states have been far more responsive than Congress to the citizen's concern for a housecleaning in politics."

John W. Gardner said in a speech prepared for a discussion of governmental ethics at the National Governors' Conference that governors "have provided state leadership at a time when leadership has been totally absent at the national level."

Gardner, president of the self-styled citizens' lobby, Common Cause, said that in the last 18 months at least 40 states have passed political reform measures, while on the federal level "the executive branch has been totally unresponsive and the Congress equally so."

He urged all states to enact measures providing for campaign financing reform and broader disclosure by public officials and lobbyists, the central points in a Common Cause backed resolution sponsored here by Govs. William G. Milliken, R-Mich., and Patrick J. Lucey, D-Wis.

Milliken, in remarks prepared for the same discussion, said "one of the primary tasks facing all of us in public life today is to assure that there is an ethical compass not only for the nation—but also for every state."

Wrong Amick given credit as hitter

Rand Amick, a young man who believes in giving credit where credit is due, wrote a letter to The Daily Standard sports department pointing out discrepancies in an article about the Southeast Missouri State University baseball team that appeared in the May 29 edition of The Daily Standard sports sectionl

Amick said the article erroneously credited him, a freshman, with leading the SeMo State team in five hitting departments. He said the team leader with a .382 batting average, 102 at bats, 22 runs, 30 hits and six doubles was actually Mark Amick, a sophomore and brother of Rand, The Amicks hail from Scott City.

"I definitely enjoy reading my name in the sports section but I feel the credit given to me in this article is a little undeserving," Amick wrote.

In his letter, Amick also pointed out another similar mistake in the article which credited Rick Blankenship of Sikeston with fashioning a 4-3 season record for the Tribe with a 3.09 earned run average. The pitcher for the Indians was Bob Blankenship, not Rick, Amick stated. The Blankenships are also brothers.

Sports

BATTING—Mike Schmidt, Phillies, drove in two runs with a single and his 11th home run of the year and fourth in the last seven games, leading Philadelphia to a 5-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

PITCHING—Bill Hands, Twins, hurled 4 2-3 innings of hitless relief with eight strikeouts and recorded his 100th career triumph as Minnesota edged the Boston Red Sox 5-4 in 12 innings.

Sikeston boys take net honors

Sikeston boys and Caruthersville girls dominated the under 15 division singles and placed second in doubles during Sikeston Country Club's second annual juniors open tennis tournament Saturday and Sunday on the club's courts.

The boys 15-18 division was not completed and has finals scheduled in both singles and doubles at 1 p.m. Saturday at the country club. Chris Leonard of Festus and Scott Loos of Cape Girardeau are matched in the singles final, and Loos and Rob Weeks of Cape Girardeau will tangle with Leonard and Scott Matein of Festus for the doubles crown.

David Potashnick and Mark Heeb of Sikeston finished first and second in the boys under 15 division singles. Heeb also teamed up with Johnny Greer to win the doubles championship, and Potashnick teamed with Chris Matthews to finish second as Sikeston entrants completed a sweep of division honors.

In the girls under 15 division, Jimmy Jean Bullington and Cathy Dodd of Caruthersville placed first and second in singles and joined forces to win the doubles championship. Runners-up in doubles competition were Beth Spencer and Penny Jones, also of Caruthersville.

Runner-up to Miss Hill in the girls 15-18 division singles was Karen Bullington of Caruthersville, who turned the tables on her Dexter opponent in doubles by teaming with Carla Hutchinson of Caruthersville to defeat Miss Hill and partner Elizabeth Dupont of Sikeston in the championship match.

Public image influences Bradshaw's decision

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Terry Bradshaw was at the news conference to announce he had spurned the World Football League to stay with the Pittsburgh Steelers, but in casual chatter beforehand he mentioned his beef cattle spread in Louisiana.

"There's a lot more money right now in raising hogs, but it sounds better to say you have a ranch than a pig farm," he said with a grin as he flicked an ash from a long cigar.

That same regard for his public image may have influenced Bradshaw's decision to sign a new multiyear contract with Pittsburgh of the National Football League, even though there were hints the New York Stars of WFL offered more money.

"Well, I didn't like the idea of playing in small stadiums that may not be filled ... and I still haven't taken this team to a Super Bowl," acknowledged the 25-year-old quarterback, first choice in the 1970 NFL draft.

Bradshaw, who still has a year left on his current five-year agreement with Pittsburgh, added that he had doubts about whether the WFL can survive.

Another of Bradshaw's misgivings included joining a league that is still rounding up players and coaches and even more basically gathering equipment.

Bradshaw was not selected in the WFL draft, but he was contacted later by New York Stars' Coach Babe Parilli, who tutored Bradshaw the past three seasons as an assistant at Pittsburgh.

"We did get a very substantial first offer from New York, and we were told we could expect an even more substantial second offer," said Bradshaw's attorney Les Zittrain.

Yet Zittrain said the second offer was never solicited and that Bradshaw signed with the Steelers late Saturday afternoon. Details of the new contract were not disclosed.

Royals slate tryouts next Monday at Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The Kansas City Royals' annual search for talent is under way again and much of the effort is being concentrated in a series of tryout camps. One such camp is scheduled at Capaha Park in Cape Girardeau next Monday and will start promptly at 10 a.m.

The tryout camp will be conducted by Gary Blaylock, eastern scouting director, and assisted by Gerald "Dub" Adams, a member of the scouting department.

Participants need to bring their own gloves, shoes and uniforms (or other athletic clothing).

The Royals will provide all other necessary equipment. Any costs incurred in getting to the camp must be assumed by the candidates in order to protect their amateur standing and American Legion players must bring written permission from their coach or post commander.

New Hamburg nabs win

NEW HAMBURG -- A home run by David Pobst sparked the New Hamburg Falstaffs to two sixth inning runs which provided the margin of a 3-1 victory Monday night over the Cape Girardeau Jets in SeMo Softball League play.

Don Kern scattered five hits while striking out five and issuing no walks to notch the mound victory. Nix, the losing moundsman also yielded five hits and walked one.

The victory evened New Hamburg's record at 3-3 going into the next game Wednesday at Scott City when the team will attempt to climb over the .500 mark.

DETROIT (AP) — Charles C. "Charlie" Creedon, former longtime front office official of the Detroit Tigers, died Monday after a heart attack Sunday. He was 68.

LL play kicks off

Sikeston's 1974 Little League season is officially under way following a full slate of six games in three leagues played Monday night on three fields.

Musial League openers found Collins Construction a 10-5 winner over Bank of Sikeston and Hart's Bread an 8-6 victor over Kingsway Plaza.

Collins collected its 10 runs with seven hits, including two each by Harshburger and Sherman, while Bank of Sikeston knocked the same number of hits, including three by Glaus and two by Clark. Stinnett was the winning pitcher and Glaus the loser.

Hart's notched its eight runs on seven hits to give Davis the pitching victory over Gardner and his Kingsway Plaza mates, who garnered only three hits.

In the National League, the Jaycees opened the season with a hard- fought 9-7 decision over Lewis Furniture, despite two hits by Lewis's Dennis Chappell, including the only home run in opening night play in the three leagues.

Hammock and winning pitcher Smith socked two hits each for the winners, who outhit Lewis 8-6. Bohannon was the loser

Kiwanis bested Security National Bank in a 4-1 pitching duel in the other National League contest. Both teams collected four hits, including doubles by D. Curtis and D. Harper of Kiwanis and R. Dodd of Security National. Campbell was the mound winner over Rodgers.

American League opening night contests saw Bridger Plumbing & Heating trounce Caproco by a 16-5 margin and Fabick Bros. shellack Righter Trucking by 19-0.

Glaus belted three hits and McKinney, Marks and Williams contributed two each to pace Bridger's 11-hit attack. Williams, the winning pitcher, limited Caproco to two hits.

Garner and Cecil had two hits apiece to lead Fabick's eight- hit, 19- run attack. A Williams was the winning pitcher in this game, too, as Righter managed only two hits.

Little Leagues swing into action

Typical of the opening night series of six Sikeston Little League baseball play Monday night, the pitchers have yet to find their control and the hitters and fielders need a few games under their belt to hit their stride. Above, a high, hard pitch chases the batter away from the plate in the Bridger- Caproco game won by Bridger 16-5 in American League competition.

Leible, Optimist emerge winners

Leible Implement Co. clouted Elks to 10 -3 and Optimist edged Security National Bank 9 -7 in Senior Babe Ruth League play Monday night.

Schatzley collected four hits for a perfect night at the plate and Leible and Dyer added two hits each to lead the Leible attack and make the winning pitching task easy for Walker. Stokes scored three times and Schatzley twice for the winners. Elks collected only four hits, all by different players.

Optimist collected only three hits but managed two runs each by Miller, Lewis and Hesselrode and single markers by Lawrence, Eisenbach and Alberts en route to the win over Security National's Blankenship. Hesselrode, Eisenbach and Lawrence had the three hits.

Nunnelee gained the mound victory, although Security National doubled Optimist's hit total with six including two each by Blankenship and Shell.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, June 4, the 155th day of 1974. There are 210 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, the Pacific war Battle of Midway began. The naval warfare ended in Japan's first decisive defeat in the war.

On this date:

In 1647, the English army seized England's King Charles I as a hostage.

In 1805, the United States concluded a peace treaty with Tripoli.

In 1831, Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg was chosen as the first King of Belgium.

In 1896, Henry Ford made a successful run with his car—a nightime drive around streets of Detroit.

In 1936, the first Socialist government of France took office under Premier Leon Blum.

In 1946, Juan Peron was inaugurated president of Argentina.

Ten years ago: Noisy student demonstrations against Korea's President Chung Lee Park continued despite a declaration of martial law in the Seoul area.

Five years ago: A young Cuban escaped from Cuba to Spain in the nose-wheel compartment of a jetliner, surviving a nine-hour flight at 40 degrees below zero.

One year ago: The Defense Department reported that more than 10,000 American servicemen had died of non-combat causes in Vietnam.

Today's birthdays: Actress Rosalind Russell is 62 years old. Opera singer Robert Merrill is 55.

Thought for today: Two things are bad for the heart — running up stairs and running down people — Bernard Baruch, American businessman and statesman 1870-1965.

Students From 68 Countries Attend U.N. School

By GENE KRAMER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The 1,316 boys and girls of the United Nations International School hail from 68 countries. But wearing blue jeans and sprawled about the carpeted classrooms and corridors, they look like typical American youngsters.

The high school students especially "dress atrociously," the school is too permissive and there's too little grammar drill, Mrs. Seniha Halman, a Turkish official in the U.N. Secretariat, told a reporter.

But, "The saving grace," she added, "is that my daughter, Defne, is in a school where she refers to a Senegalese boy by his name, Abdu, without any reference to the fact that he is black."

Many foreign parents are surprised by the casualness of the school but a great many say this is no problem so long as their children are happy.

Americans are the largest single national group at the $13.5-million educational plant beside the East River a mile south of U.N. headquarters.

They tend to be the pacesetters and they and their tuition money are welcome — provided they don't become too numerous.

To preserve the international character of the school, there's a ceiling of 50 per cent on the part of the student body from non-U.N. and nondiplomatic families, meaning New Yorkers.

With 616 Americans this year, the percentage hit a record 47.

In its informality, UNIS, as the place is called, resembles an American high school but in terms of scholarship it's on the superior side.

"It is almost frightening. . .some of our students want to take eight or nine subjects when they would have to take only four or five in another New York private or public school," the assistant director, Maurice Pezet of France, said.

"That's 38 to 40 forty-minute periods a week, compared to 20 to 25 in a high school," Pezet added. "We have to slow some of them down."

Desmond Cole, an Englishman who has been director of UNIS for the past decade, said the youngsters study with high motivation because most come from families that regard education as a passport to success. A combination, he explained, of students from foreign countries where education is traditionally a privilege, and Americans from "successful, progressive, middle class, ambitious families."

Pezet said that to gain greater diversity among the Americans the school hopes to provide more financial aid to talented but needy students from the minority ghettoes of New York.

Tuition ranges from $1,825 for kindergarten to $2,550 a year for the 12th and highest grade, slightly less than at the city's top private schools.

UNIS distributed $120,000 in scholarships among 190 children the past year, much of it to U.N. children not enjoying educational allowances from their governments.

Children of U.N. and diplomatic families are admitted automatically. The school was flooded with more than 2,000 applications for its remaining places the past year.

Educational quality and the good rate of college placement were among reasons New York parents gave for sending their children to UNIS. But mostly it was the school's international atmosphere.

"I think what the United Nations is supposed to stand for is why we send our kids there," said Mrs. Ella Ettinger, the mother of 8-and 11-year-old girls. "The U.N. is the way we thought the world should be and it is the kind of atmosphere we want our children to be in."

Pezet said he regards the diverse background of the 115 UNIS teachers from five continents as perhaps even more valuable than "playing volleyball with someone from Pakistan." He said the school hopes to recruit more teachers from the Third World — Africa, Asia and Latin America.

In a few weeks social studies classes will act out the American Revolution. Some students will argue that taxation without representation is tyranny while others will denounce the colonists as smugglers and tax chiselers.

It's an example of how, as a school sponsored by the United Nations and U.N. member countries, UNIS tries to teach history independently of national traditions and orientations.

Mother tongues and other languages are taught whenever 10 or more students sign up. The school presently gives Latin, Arabic, Chinese, German, Hebrew, Hindi, Japanese, Polish, Portuguese, Spanish, Swedish and Urdu.

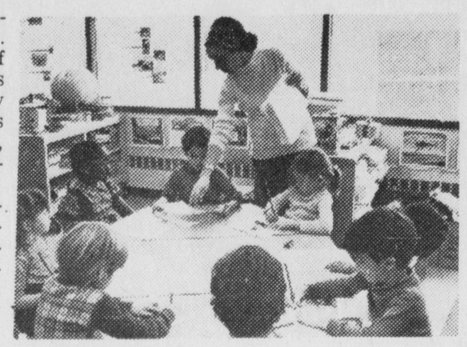
Most UNIS graduates go on to leading universities in the United States and the Commonwealth. A growing number go to Canada because of advantageous financial arrangements there for foreign students.

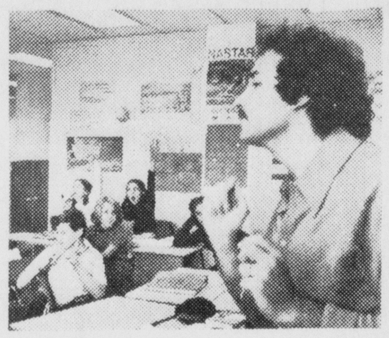
UNIS now offers a super-tough "International Baccalaureate" sequence of courses recognized as entrance qualifications for universities around the world.

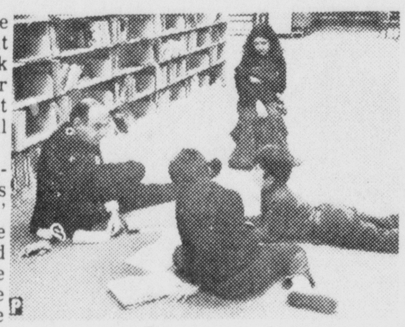
The teachers describe their students as self-reliant with few disciplinary problems.

Older students may have experimented with smoking pot, Cole said, "but never anything stronger." He said the reason there is no hard drug problem is the favorable ratio of one teacher for every dozen students.

It means, the director explained, that there is no alienation — "Every student has adults he can talk to."







THE UNITED NATIONS INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL—Considered permissive and rather casual by some of the parents, UNIS nevertheless was swamped with more than 2,000 applications for its remaining places last year. With students taking eight or nine subjects as opposed to four or five in the public and even some private schools, parents remain impressed with the high level of acceptance into leading universities in the United States and the Commonwealth.

Stamps In The News

FIRST KENTUCKY SETTLEMENT
FORT HARROD
1774 1974

The 200th anniversary of the first settlement of Kentucky will be hailed on a new U.S. 10-cent stamp June 15. The main design features a view of the settlement at Ford Harrod, from which developed the town of Harrodsburg where the stamp will have first-day ceremonies.

James Harrod and 32 other men from Pennsylvania undertook construction of the fort 24 years after the discovery of the Cumberland Gap. Harrod's group paddled canoes down the Ohio River and up the Kentucky River to the region known as the Bluegrass. There, on a high plateau, they built the fort which holds the distinction of being the first English settlement west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Eighteen years after the founding of the fort and the settlement, Kentucky was admitted to the Union as the 15th state.

The new stamp depicts settlers in ox-drawn wagons approaching the log buildings of the fort. At the top of the stamp, in four lines, appears: "First Kentucky Settlement — Fort Harrod — 1774-1974." In the bottom right corner is "US 10-cents." The colors are yellow, orange, blue, green and black.

First-day cancellation requests may be sent to "Fort Harrod Stamps," Postmaster, Harrodsburg, Ky. 40330." Proper remittance (10 cents in money order) must be enclosed and postmarked no later than June 15.

It is interesting to note that the anniversary date is actually June 16 but since that is a Sunday, the stamps are being issued on the prior day.

The United Nations Postal Administration has issued a new commemorative stamp in its "Art at the United Nations" series. The main design shows "The Peace Mural" by Candido Portinari of Brazil located in the delegates' lobby of the General Assembly building at U.N. headquarters in New York.

Football clinic begins

A two- week football clinic for prospective candidates for all junior and senior high football teams in the Sikeston public school athletic program started Monday and will continue with daily sessions through June 14 at Public School Stadium. Conducted by members of the coaching staff, the clinic will concentrate on fundamentals to get the players ready for the fall. Going through drills, above, are freshman candidated, from left, Tee Grojean, Jim McAfee and Scott Lavalle.

Moss knows meaning of pain

CAPE GIRARDEAU--When anybody talks about what it takes to play professional football, the ability to endure pain is always mentioned and then forgotton, like some drudging, unreal task. It's the stamp on the membership card, the great writer's neurosis and the cigarette's butt. It has to be.

Eddie Moss knows about football aches and twinges and about its racking anquishes. He has played football for almost half his 25 years and has lost blood, confidence and even a brother on football fields from Poplar Bluff to Buffalo, N.Y. Yet the fact that he loves what he's doing is as visible as the cracked front tooth in the bearded face.

Eddie Moss is the director of the Cape Girardeau Civic Center until he leaves that position this summer to join the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp. It's apparent that he takes great delight in this job, too. They're going to miss him when he's gone.

Where he's going is the campus of Illinois State University at Normal. He'll try to win back the starting berth lost a year ago when he blocked a Philadelphia Eagle and a bicep muscle snapped like baling wire. The injury was unusual, and painful, but has healed completely. That leaves only the worry of wresting a position from backfield starters Terry Metcalf and Donny Anderson, along with an old newcomer named Ken Willard, acquired in a trade with the San Francisco 49'ers.

A lot of people from this area will be thinking, "Come on Eddie," when he gives it a try. He played high school football at Poplar Bluff under Jim Lohr, now the head coach for Southeast Missouri State University. Brothers Leroy and Hosea were standouts there before moving on to play college football, and Mike, who played tailback for the Mules last year,will be a junior.

Leroy was at times spectacular while at the University of Missouri and plans to play in the Canadian Football League this season.

Hosea, who was an all-state football and basketball player in high school, enrolled at Fort Scott Junior College in Kansas. After graduation he complained of leg pain on the first day of fall practice and died that night in a Fort Scott hospital at the age of 19.Poplar Bluff High School retired his jersey.

Eddie played junior college football at Centerville, Iowa, for two years before coming to SeMo. State. The 6-foot, 220-pounder was an All-MIAA fullback, graduating in 1972 with a bachelor of science in education. He was drafted in the seventh round by Buffalo, but O.J. Simpson proved too much competition. He returned to Poplar Bluff as a teacher's aide and assistant football coach.

After attending a Cardinal tryout session in the spring of 1973, Eddie was asked to join the summer camp, where he impressed the Redbird coaches with his determination to learn and perform the duties of a blocking back. he could run too.

But all the concern with plays and opposing linebackers stopped abruptly when the right arm gave way. After a lot of treatment by the Cardianl physicain, who had never dealt with such an injur before, Eddie returned to Cape Girardeau to let his wounds heal while regrouping for another try. In the meantime he accepted the opening at the civic enter.

Under his supervision, the center entertains about 45 kids a day with cooking classes, piano lessons, shuffleboard, basketball, art classes and just about anything else anyone can think of doing. There is a kitchen for feeding the Head Start classes, which also use the building. He and assistant director Elsie Gaden put together a sickle cell test program last weekend, free of charge and administered by volunteers.

He says money is not really a problem at the center, but wants to see parents get more involved. "They should spend some time with the kids, participate in activites, help us get a Boy Scout troop started," says Moss. "They just come down to pick up the kid and "whsht' they're gone."

Eddie Moss has endeared himself to a lot of people in his still-brief career -from football coaches, to a civic center board of directors, to a bunch of kids who respond to his quick humor and patient authority with god-like homage. He could have done more here and might return someday, but right now it's time to yell, "Come on Eddie."

Council votes to fight hike

CHAFFEE -- The City Council Monday night voted unanimousely to hire William Ford of Jefferson City, a member of the Missouri Pooling Commission to fight a 17 percent rate increase requested by Associated Natural Gas Co.

Thomas Schiwitz of Chaffee was hired by the council as a full time patrolman on the Chaffee Police Department.

Raymond Dame, owner of Dame Lumber Co. in Chaffee, requested that a lot on 705 Main St. be rezoned for a multiple family apartment building.

The council told Dame that it would have to run an announcement 15 days in a local paper before a meeting could be held on the subject.

Applications for the sale of fireworks were granted to J.T. Slaughter of Slaughter Confectionary at 147 W. Yoakum St. and the Chaffee Jaycees.

The council award a bid of $16.50 per ton to Morton Salt Co. of Rosemont, Ill. to add salt to the citys water supply. Another bid was submitted by Cargill Salt Co. of Minneapolis for $20.45 per ton.

A building permit was approved for Mark Schultz of Chaffee to parking a trailer on Maple Lane. Another building permit requested by William Treadway for a 12 by 44 foot carport on 114 W. Clarman was refused. The council felt the $1,500 carport did not meet the necessary requirements.

Dexter council changes location of voting booth

DEXTER — The City Council voted Monday night to advertise for bids to purchase a new police car. The bid price will include the trade- in of a 1972 model and bids will be open at the June 17 meeting.

In all future elections, including today's special election to elect trustees to the Stoddard County Ambulance District, voting booths will be placed in the room to the rear and extreme west side of the city administration building and all voters will be required to use the west entrance door. Mayor Willis Conner said the council is taking this step due to recent criticism that city employes who work in the building are interfering with election procedures.

He further stated that it is impossible to close city offices during an election. All doors leading to the voting room to other parts of the building will be closed and locked during an election.

The council voted by a four to one margin to issue a beer license to Harley's Restaurant on Highway 114 West. Action on the matter was delayed from the May 20 meeting to allow the city attorney time to check a recent ordinance which was thought to limit the number of licenses which could be issued. It was discovered that the ordinance only applies to package liquor licenses and that two additional beer licenses were available. The new restaurant will occupy the building which formerly housed The Friendly Motel.

The council passed a resolution commending the Dexter National Guard unit for outstanding service rendered the community on June 1 and 2 when they picked up trash throughout the city.

Permission was granted the water department to erect a small block building at the new water treatment plant for storage purposes.

Earl Sawyer and Robert Godwin of Poplar Bluff, representatives of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., discussed the progress made in buying cables in the city and promised quick repairs of any damage done to city streets. The half million dollar project will provide improved telephone service to Dexter residents and to rural customers in the area west of Dexter to Dudley.

In other action, a license for vending machines was issued to Wayne Jackson for his business located at 403 Park Lane.

An electrical refrigeration and coiling license was renewed for Charles Everett and Paul Wilson of Sikeston.

Mayor Conner read a letter from the Missouri Department of Health commending the city of Dexter for its excellent water department and giving the results of the May 14 inspection of the new water treatment plant.

The council asked the city attorney to draw up an ordinance regarding the demolition of condemned buildings within the city. The council is scheduled to vote on the ordinance at the June 17 meeting.

Total disbursements for the month of May were $38,970.90.

Madrid street improvements authorized by City Council

NEW MADRID -The City Council Monday night authorized street improvements, granted a liquor license, discussed the sale of electrical power and authorized power plant construction payments.

Full approval by the council for advertising on the intent to resurface several streets was made. Streets proposed to be resurfaced include Brush Prairie, Pinnell, Hunter, First, Second, Kingshighway and Riley.

If property owners do not object to the street paving, the city will ask for the passage of a bond issue to finance the drainage for the streets. Most of the streets have an engineering estimate of $8 per property foot.

The bond issue will also ask for funds to extend sewer service to the Billy Goat Hill area in the southwest section of the city.

Charles Lawrence and Buddy Dolan were authorized a liquor license for the premises known as Roy's Lounge on Main Street, providing they comply with residency requirements.

The sale of 10,000 kilowatts of power from the city's power station to the city of Kennett was discussed. A committee composed of aldermen Bill Boyd, Ed LaValle, and Mayor Jim Cravens was named to meet with Kennett representatives in New Madrid Thursday for the discussion and negotiation of the contract.

Construction payments totaling $97,104.12 for power plant construction in St. Jude Industrial Park were approved.

Aldermen Ras Jones and Joe Hunter and City Administrator Don Lloyd were appointed to a committee for the formation of plans for the city's solid waste disposal with necessary specifications required to submit the plan for bids.

The board agreed to begin June 15 the enforcement of ordinances requiring grass and weeds to be cut on vacant lots and that abandoned dwellings be torn down.

Administrator Lloyd was authorized to check into complaints that mowing equipment was damaging stones and markers in the Evergreen Cemetery.

Whitlock said the city will adopt parts of the ordinance, using what the municipal league provided as a guideline. Whitlock will write an ordinance for the council to consider at the special meeting scheduled for mid -month.

PROTEST

The council authorized Drumm to submit a protest to the Public Service Commission over a rate increase sought by Associated Natural Gas.

Associated Natural Gas is asking for an average of 17 per cent increase in its monthly rates.

The council discussed using the pooling commission of cities seeking to buy the gas company as a way to cut costs for intervening into the rate hike. Using the pooling, the Public Service Commission would give all the cities served by the company a chance to protest the rate hike. A decision on the extent of the city's involvement in the protest will be made later.

OTHER MATTERS

The council authorized changes in the Chamber of Commerce lease on a half acre of airport property. The changes were required by the Federal Aviation Administration before it would approve the lease. The Chamber is constructing an office building on the site.

The changes provide for renegotiation of the lease every five years and require ownership of the building revert to the city at the end of the 50 -year lease.

The council accepted a bid of $2,200 from Sonny Presley Chevrolet for a new pick -up truck for the humane officer. The price includes trade -in value of the old vehicle.

One other bid was received from Sikeston Motors. It was for $2,938, including trade -in.

The council authorized the rezoning of a row of lots between the north end of Davis Blvd, and the railroad tracks from commercial to single family. The lots are owned by adjacent property owners.

The council accepted the plot of the south half of Greenbrier Estates Subdivision to be located north of Green Meadows. The north half of the subdivision will be presented later.

Ziegenhorn asked Police Chief Leon Culp to do something about noisey motorcycles in the city, saying they are becoming a problem.

Whitlock said he has received several complaints recently about the noise.

The complaints came from "a good cross -section of the town", he said.

Ziegenhorn also added something should be done about a city wide observance of the nation's bi -centennial in 1976.

The commission accepted the resignations of Paul Baumbarger from the library board and Jim Pharris from the park board.
